Boulder Dam Opponents, Adherents Seek Agreement

UTAH SOLON MEETS WITH SEN. JOHNSON

Peace Overtures Made By Senator Smoot After Engineer Report Made
MAY REVISE MEASURE
Result of Survey Will Be Given to Public Next Monday By President

By PAUL R. MALLON (UP Staff Correspondent)
WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—(UP)—Diplomatic relations between adherents and opponents of Boulder dam legislation, broken off in the filibusters during the last two sessions, are being resumed quietly on Capitol Hill in an effort to work out an agreement about procedure when the dam measure comes before the senate as the unfinished business next Monday.

Whether these negotiations will bring peace or war, will determine whether the dramatic 20-year-old fight for the big Colorado river dam project is to be concluded or renewed. The peace overtures have been undertaken by Senator Smoot of Utah, opponent of the bill who is meeting with Senator Johnson, its author.

A change in the situation has been wrought since the last session because of the report of engineers who studied the project during the summer and recently submitted their findings to President Coolidge.

While the report has not officially been made public, most of those interested in the project have seen it. They agree that the pending legislation will have to be revised materially to meet objections raised in the report.

Johnson is officially silent on the proposals for revision but it is understood he is preparing a series of amendments which he believes will in the end make his bill conform to the latest findings of the experts, and enable it to pass.

Aside from the technical objections, the engineers found the cost of the project would be nearer $165,000,000 than the original figure of $125,000,000. They said that in the construction, diversion would have to be provided for perhaps twice as much water as formerly was estimated and they suggested the water pressure must be reduced to make the dam feasible.

Johnson believes he can handle

CONDITION OF KING GEORGE IS IMPROVED

His Majesty Passes Quiet Night and Infection Is Being Checked
By KEITH JONES (United Press Staff Correspondent)
LONDON, Nov. 29.—(UP)—Optimism over King George's condition prevailed today.

Although his majesty remained seriously ill with pleurisy, his physicians announced spread of the infection was being prevented and those at Buckingham palace were cheered considerably.

An official bulletin issued during the morning said:

"The king passed a quiet though rather sleepless night. The infective process is being held in check."

"Stanley Hewitt, 'Dawson of Penn.'"

The departure for Madrid of the Queen of Spain, first cousin of King George, was regarded as another hopeful sign, as it was believed she would have remained if there was grave doubt of the king's recovery.

Princess Mary and the Duke and Duchess of York said farewell at the station to the queen of Spain, who left with her two daughters after a visit to England. They proceeded to Dover enroute to Paris and Madrid.

Others at the station were Princess Beatrice, Princess Helene Victoria, the Marquis and Marchioness of Carisbrook, Lady Patricia Ramsay, the Spanish ambassador, Alfonso Merry Del Val, with his wife, other diplomatic officials and prominent members of the Spanish colony in London.

A hopeful note was expressed by the Daily Star today when it reported that a man closely associated with the king for many years told friends as he left the palace this morning:

"The king's will power is tremendous. I am sure that from this day onwards he will improve steadily."

The departure of the queen of Spain, the fact that the Duke of Gloucester, third son of the king, continued his hunting trip in Africa, and the way the members of the royal family in general continued their normal activities, all seemed to indicate that the inner circle does not consider the king's condition critical at present.

COOLIDGES ATTEND SERVICES IN CHURCH

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., Nov. 29.—(UP)—A full day of activity confronted President and Mrs. Coolidge today as they began their Thanksgiving holiday in the picturesque Blue Ridge mountains here.

After a motor ride from Swannanoa Country club, the executive holiday mansion, a union service at the First Baptist church here awaited the president and first lady.

The service, under supervision of eight members of the local ministerial alliance, was conducted by the Rev. J. W. Moore of the First Baptist church. He used as his theme "Behold, I make all things equal."

Former Officer Of British Army L. A. Suicide By Poison

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 29.—(UP)—John Thomas Walker, former British army officer, poisoned himself with suicidal intent, police reported today.

Walker was found dead by his wife in his apartment Monday night after he had requested her for a drink of liquor.

Mrs. Walker told police her husband, suffering from epilepsy since the war, had mixed the whiskey with poison while she was out of the room.

No inquest will be held, it was announced.

JOHN COOLIDGE ENGAGEMENT IS GIVEN PUBLIC

Son of President to Wed Daughter of Governor Of Connecticut

FARMINGTON, Conn., Nov. 29.—(INS)—John Coolidge, son of the president, and Florence Trumbull, pretty 24-year-old daughter of Connecticut's governor, celebrated the formal announcement of their engagement last night by dancing to the strains of a jazz band with twenty-eight friends at the Farmington Country club until the wee sma' hours early today.

Miss Trumbull smilingly announced that she and John would not be married in the White House, and the date and place of the wedding could not be learned.

It was indicated, however, that the young couple would be married at the home of Governor John H. Trumbull in Plainville, near here, and that the ceremony would not be held before next summer.

The inscribing of the initials "F. T. and J. C." on the place cards of the twenty-eight guests at a dinner given before the dance last night was the first formal announcement that the long-expected engagement of the president's son and the sweetheart of his college days was a reality. At 11 o'clock the initials "F. T. and J. C." were flashed on an improvised motion picture screen at the country club.

The engagement dinner was

Britain And U. S. To Ignore Request For Naval Session

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—(UP)—Premier Stanley Baldwin of Great Britain will be advised to ignore Rep. Fred A. Britten's proposal for a naval limitations conference between committees of the house of representatives and the house of commons should he ask advice from this government, the United Press learned today.

On the other hand, President Coolidge and the state department are expected to ignore Britten's unusual procedure unless it is officially brought to the administration's attention. It is understood the administration would prefer to let the proposal die without further discussion and this is expected to happen unless Britten or some one in London revives the matter.

President-Elect Appears Tired This Morning As Results of Visits

By LAWRENCE SULLIVAN (UP Staff Correspondent)
Arlington, Va., Nov. 29.—(UP)—President-elect Herbert Hoover and the other of his Latin-American "good-will" party today anticipated a restful Thanksgiving day cruising southward through a region of the Pacific replete with romance.

Early this morning the battleship Maryland encountered some squally weather but it was hoped conditions would change for the better as the ship penetrated farther into the Gulf of Panama, the sultry calm of which caused Balboa to name the entire western ocean "Pacific."

Elated over the warmth of the receptions accorded it in Central America, the entire Hoover party is now looking forward to similar welcomes in South America, Quayaquil, Ecuador, the first South American port of call, will be reached on Saturday.

At noon today, it was expected, the Maryland would be about five degrees north of the beautiful Cocos Islands.

Weather permitting, church services will be held on deck at 10 o'clock. A sumptuous turkey dinner will then be served to all aboard.

Mr. Hoover appeared to be very tired this morning. He showed the effects of the three strenuous days he spent in Honduras, Salvador, Nicaragua and Costa Rica, during which he sent all his energies towards furthering amity between those nations and the United States.

That he had succeeded was brought home to everyone aboard by the extreme cordiality of the demonstrations accorded him yesterday at both Punta Arenas and San Jose. President Cleto Gonzalez Viquez, of Costa Rica, assured Mr. Hoover of the lasting friendship of his country. The president personally escorted Mr. Hoover on the train journey from San Jose to the coast.

Further impetus was added to the Nicaraguan canal project by the San Jose visit. Newspapers and public officials there expressed the hope that the United States would undertake the work of building the canal and thus protect Costa Rican rights in the river San Juan. The

SOS DISPATCHED BY CANADIAN STEAMER

PORTLAND, Ore., Nov. 29.—(UP)—The Canadian steamship, Chief Maquillian, bound for the Orient from British Columbia ports, sent out an S. O. S. call at 4:32 a. m., today, according to Mackay radio station here.

No reason for the distress call was given by the ship's master. All ships were asked to stand by. The position of the vessel given at the time of the S. O. S. call was latitude 50:25 north and longitude 175:15 west.

The ship's captain was in communication with the naval radio station on St. Paul's island in Alaskan waters, but owing to the static station here was unable to pick up any of the later messages.

Thanksgiving

By BRUCE CATTON

POWER and glory,
Greatness and gold;
That is our story,
Proudly retold.
Let every steeple
Boast with its bell;
We are the people—
We have done well.

Every Thanksgiving
Heightens our pride;
All people living
Envy our stride.
We are the wealthy
Kings of the earth,
Stalwart and healthy,
Knowing our worth.

So we sing, loudly,
In our own praise
Surveying proudly
All of our days.
Yet, all around us
Shadowy hosts
Rise to confound us—
Pioneer ghosts!

Theirs was the weeping,
Theirs was the pain;
Ours is the reaping,
Ours is the gain;
This is the morrow
Longed-for of old,
Won by their sorrow,
Hunger and cold.

God of Compassion,
Seated on high,
Help us re-fashion
Our haughty cry.
Let us be humble,
Let us be just,
Lest we should stumble
Down to the dust.

For busy cities and peaceful plains,
For shining towers and golden hoard,
For dead men's losses and live men's gains—
Accept our humble thanks, Oh Lord.

POST OFFICE ENGINEER TO COME MONDAY

With W. A. Newman, district engineer in charge of public buildings, scheduled to be here Monday for inspection of sites for a federal building, Postmaster T. E. Stephenson as yet has received no definite proposition from local property owners, it was revealed today.

However, it is known that groups of property owners interested in securing the government building in their respective districts have been engaged in efforts to procure a grouping of properties to provide the size lot structure.

Newman has advised that approximately 28,500 feet will be

Man Serves Term or Murder That Wasn't Committed

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Nov. 29.—(UP)—Peter Thomas, Negro, was granted a Thanksgiving parole today, which was clemency given him on a sentence for a murder that never was committed.

Sentenced to serve 10 years on his plea of guilty to shooting and killing Isaac Young, Negro, Thomas has served almost five years of his sentence. In a statement to the penal board, Helly L. Stiles, prosecuting attorney of Pemiscot county, declared he filed the information against Thomas on statements by other Negroes at a dance hall where Young was reported killed.

Later, it was learned Young was only wounded slightly in the fight with Thomas and, fearing arrest himself, Young fled.

YOUTH ADMITS HE STRANGLED MRS. HUNNICUT

BAKERSFIELD, Nov. 29.—(INS)—Harrison H. Randolph, 24-year-old paroled prisoner, has confessed that he strangled Mrs. Paul C. Hunnicutt, 45, to death with an electric cord when she struggled against his advances, according to an announcement today by District Attorney Ray Bailey.

The confession was said to have been obtained from Harrison in his cell in the Kern county jail.

Mrs. Hunnicutt's limp body was found propped up in a clothes closet last Tuesday night when her son returned home. Police said the woman had been choked to death and then attacked.

PRESIDENT SPENDS DAY IN VIRGINIA

Football Stadiums Filled With Fans Witnessing Many Titular Contests

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN (UP Staff Correspondent)
NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—America's 115,000,000 people today enjoyed the annual Thanksgiving holiday according to the dictates of their own individual taste.

Many thousands went motoring, others unloaded enthusiasm at football games in the nation's stadiums and still others went to the movies. But nearly all of them, from Broadway to the smallest Main street, went through one rite—that good, old-fashioned custom of sinking one's teeth into generous slices of turkey and partaking of the trimmings, including cranberry sauce.

It is estimated that 10,000,000 turkeys were slaughtered for consumption today. Best available figures gathered from all over the country put the number of chickens killed at 2,500,000. Millions of other families favored some other class of delicacy—geese, ducks, rabbits, Ducklings and roast suckling pigs. Figuring a population of 115,000,000 for the country, there would be 23,000,000 families on the basis of an average of five persons to each family. It is estimated that 3,000,000 of these families are vegetarians. Consequently 20,000,000 families must be having their turkey, chicken, suckling pig, or whatever their favorite meat dish happens to be.

President Coolidge and his family spent their Thanksgiving in the Blue Ridge mountains of Virginia. The chief executive is spending a week-end vacation at the Swannanoa Country club, high up in the mountains, near Waynesboro, Va.

Business generally was at a standstill, for comparatively few concerns remained open, all the banks in New York, the New York stock exchange, the produce exchange, and other markets were closed. Railroads, newspapers in some cities, traction lines and a few of the necessary public service organizations were about all that were in operation. Practically every branch of government business at Washington was closed.

The sale of turkeys in New York was about normal, or perhaps a little below normal, according to an employee of the Chelsea Live Poultry company. Live turkeys opened Thanksgiving week selling at 43 cents and dropped to 35 today.

EZRA MEEKER DYING, PHYSICIAN REPORTS

SEATTLE, Nov. 29.—(UP)—The remarkable vitality of Ezra Meeker today still held off the clutch of death.

"Slowly but surely Ezra Meeker is dying," was the latest word to come from his bedside at a local hotel.

Physicians attending the aged pioneer of the west have expressed their amazement at the tenacity with which the 97-year-old man has clung to his life thread.

For three days now he has been kept alive by injections. Each hour he grows weaker. His pulse is barely perceptible.

required for a site, with preference for a lot 150 by 190 feet. It is possible the footage in other dimensions may be acceptable, it is understood.

Stephenson said today that he had no definite information as to proposals that will be submitted when the engineer reaches here Monday, but rumors have associated a number of locations with the project.

The southeast corner of Main and Second streets, embracing the Butz and Towner properties have been mentioned, but it is said that Mrs. H. J. Towner will not consent to sale of her holdings for the purpose.

The block on Bush street lying between Second and First has been mentioned. It is known that a group of men are working on a proposition embracing the Masonic and Clarence Gustling properties at the northeast corner of Fifth and Sycamore streets. A grouping of properties at Seventh and Main to include the Innes property on the northeast corner has been proposed, but it is not known whether parties interested are succeeding with the proposed grouping.

The O. L. Halsel holdings on the northeast corner of Fifth and Broadway and the property of the First Christian church on the northwest corner of Broadway and Sixth streets have been suggested as good locations but it is not known that these will be formally submitted to the engineer.

It is conceded that it will be difficult to find a close in position a lot of the size required by the government, and it is believed that a site in the downtown business district can be obtained only by a grouping of parcels.

The country in general, however, was not yet completely reassured and there was wide perplexity because of the non-committal tone of this morning's official bulletin.

When the bulletin was posted at the palace gates, the crowd surged forward to read it. Many turned away puzzled over whether the tone of the bulletin should be considered good or bad.

It was a raw, foggy day and the crowd at the gates was less than a thousand. A stream of inquirers arrived at intervals all day, however, and many chauffeurs, alone in luxurious automobiles, apparently were inquiring in behalf of their employers.

The significance of the return of the Prince of Wales from his African hunting trip was minimized in some quarters today. It was attributed more to the necessity of his attending to affairs of state rather than to alarm over the gravity of his majesty's condition. The Daily News said that the privy council was discussing what arrangements should be made to continue the functions of the crown in the event the king's illness is protracted.

Even if his majesty recovers soon, his convalescence may be lengthy. He might have to go to a better climate and in any event would be unable to attend to his arduous duties.

It was recalled that in 1915, when the king was cruising in the Mediterranean after an attack of bronchitis, that the state councilors appointed Prince Henry, the Lord Chancellor, the Archbishop of Canterbury and the prime minister to continue the royal functions.

DRUMS BEAT FOR WALES IN AFRICA

If you ask the native warriors of British Uganda, where the Prince of Wales and his party trekked on their African tour, they'll tell you that H. R. H. is a regular guy. This picture shows him in rather dignified participation in a "omwelope" (sham battle) staged with the accompaniment of war drums and chants. So pleased were the natives with the democratic prince that they rattled their spears and cheered as he passed through their ranks.

COUNTY SCHOOL AREAS MAY BE CONSOLIDATED

Orange county, which now has 47 elementary and nine high school districts, will have only six units if bills already drafted pass the next legislature, it was revealed today.

And, if the legislation becomes effective, public school management throughout the state will become a simpler job, William John Cooper, superintendent of public instruction, is reported to have told Gov. C. C. Young. Cooper outlined three programs which have been drawn to cut the red tape out of school administration. The first was the county unit plan, proposed by the California Taxpayers' association. This is the plan which would reduce Orange county's 47 elementary and nine high school districts to six units.

In the state as a whole the several hundred high school districts and the 3214 elementary school districts would be consolidated into about 141 school units, each under one superintendent. The following counties would constitute a single unit each:

Alpine, Amador, Calaveras, Colusa, Del Norte, El Dorado, Glenn, Inyo, Lake, Lassen, Mariposa, Modoc, Mono, Napa, Nevada, Plumas, San Benito, San Francisco (already existing), Shasta, Sierra, Siskiyou, Sutter, Tehama, Trinity, Tuolumne, Yolo and Yuba.

Two-unit counties probably would be as follows, the larger taking the name of the biggest town: Humboldt, Madras, Marin, Mendocino, Merced, Placer, Riverside, Sacramento, San Luis Obispo, Santa Cruz, Solano, Kings (2 or 3).

Three-unit counties probably would be: Butte, Kern, Monterey, San Joaquin, Santa Barbara, Santa Clara, Stanislaus, Tulare, Contra Costa, (3 or 4).

The following probably would be four-unit counties: Imperial, San Diego, San Mateo, Sonoma, Ventura.

Fresno and San Bernardino would be five-unit counties, Orange six, Alameda seven and Los Angeles 21.

State Senator Herbert W. Slater, of Santa Rosa, has drafted a bill for codification of the school laws. These laws now are scattered through three codes and Slater's plan will take them out of these divisions and put them under a separate heading.

Cooper recommended in his biennial report that a commission of nine members be appointed to make a thorough study of the California school system and make recommendations for legislative action.

This plan also received unanimous endorsement by the convention of city, county and district school superintendents at Del Monte recently.

BROWN-COLGATE IN ANNUAL GRID TEST

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Nov. 29.—(INS)—Brown and Providence have battled to a tie on the gridiron for the past three years, and it is not improbable that the result will be the same this morning when the teams clash in their annual Thanksgiving Day classic. The two teams are about evenly matched.

The only blot on Brown's record was its defeat by Yale, when the locals were in a slump. Colgate fell down in losing to Vanderbilt and New York University but showed a powerful offensive in beat Syracuse 30 to 6.

preceded by a dinner held in celebration of the twenty-fifth wedding anniversary of Governor and Mrs. Trumbull. This affair was attended by 175 persons prominent in Connecticut society.

President and Mrs. Coolidge, who are known to be extremely fond of their prospective daughter-in-law and have entertained her frequently at the White House, sent a bouquet of two dozen chrysanthemums to her parents. Mr. Coolidge and the first lady of the land are taking an outing in Virginia today.

After the engagement dinner John, his fiancée and their friends danced for several hours at the country club. The president's son was kept busy blushingly acknowledging the congratulations of the guests. He was to spend the holiday with the Trumbulls today.

John, who started "working" on the railroad for the New York, New Haven and Hartford last September, recently intimated that he "couldn't afford to get married just yet." His salary as a clerk in the company's offices at New Haven was reported to be thirty dollars a week at that time. He is twenty-two.

The president's son met the vivacious daughter of Connecticut's governor three years ago when he was an undergraduate at Amherst and she was a student at Mt. Holyoke college. He was her escort at several Amherst dances. The romance bloomed quickly and John became a frequent visitor at the Trumbull mansion.

At one of the largest and most enthusiastic meetings ever held by the Orange county chapter of Disabled American Veterans of the World War, staged last night in the American Legion hall here, East National Commander Frank J. Irwin declared that the Santa Ana unit is drawing nationwide attention to this section as a result of its efficient work.

Jack Fisher, commander of the organization here, is one of the most efficient, energetic and popular veterans in the country, Irwin told his hearers. He recalled that last year the organization carried off every state honor and this year took first national honors in reaching its membership quota first.

State Com. William J. Murphy, of Santa Ana, was praised by Irwin for his efficient work since taking office.

Irwin also commended the cooperation which the Disabled Veterans are being accorded by leading citizens throughout the county.

Members of the executive committee, which is planning the military ball to be given December 5 by the veterans, were guests of the group at last night's dinner meeting. Plans for the ball are virtually complete, it was announced last night.

J. Frank Burke gave a talk on the activity of the organization, declaring that its work in assisting less fortunate comrades is highly commendable. Burke indicated that he is heartily in accord with the organization's work.

ENTIRE NATION IS OBSERVING THANKSGIVING

A year ago they started at 45 and dropped to 25.

Dieting, which has become a habit with so many Americans, especially among women, was given as one of the reasons for the fall off in the volume of turkeys disposed of. In many cases where two turkeys were bought a year ago, one is sufficient today. People do not eat as heartily as in days of yore.

Along the Bowery, in the lower East Side, the social welfare houses extended themselves and gave free turkey dinners to the usual line of men who are "down but not out." There is no unemployment problem to deal with but nevertheless there is a full quota of "human driftwood."

Special Thanksgiving services will be held tonight in churches all over the land. Many sermons will touch on America's recognized prosperity as one reason why people should be happy. In Wall Street visible evidence of this prosperity was in evidence. Brokers were counting huge profits and overworked clerks were figuring up their overtime profits resulting from the record-breaking stock markets that have prevailed of late. Never has the American public invested so heavily in Wall Street stocks.

The stadiums the nation over will reverberate this afternoon with strange noises as millions view the final football games of the season. They include such major contests as Texas and Texas A. and M.; Pittsburgh and Penn State; Alabama and Georgia; University of California, Southern Branch, and Oregon; Pennsylvania and Cornell; N. Y. U. and Oregon Aggies; Columbia and Syracuse; Brown and Colgate; West Virginia and W. and J.; Nebraska and Kansas State; Marquette and Iowa State; Oklahoma and Missouri; Washington and Washington State; Florida and W. and L.; Georgia Tech and Alabama Poly; Southern Methodist and Texas Christian; Tennessee and Kentucky; Tulane and Louisiana State and Vanderbilt and Sewanee.

brilliant affair of the year, it was said.

Dr. F. C. Pache, of the San Diego Disabled Veterans organization, and Adjutant Van Derlicke, of San Diego, were guests at last night's session.

Executive committee members present were Mr. and Mrs. J. Frank Burke, Mrs. F. E. Coulter, Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Flagg, W. B. Williams and Charles Van Wyk.

Lou Traveller's orchestra will provide music for the ball and high class entertainment will be enjoyed between dances.

river forms a part of the proposed route of the canal along the boundary between Nicaragua and Costa Rica.

The Costa Rican minister was re-established in Panama today for the first time since 1921. The minister was recalled then because of a boundary dispute which began in 1903 and was adjudicated in 1911 by Chief Justice White of the United States supreme court.

Despite Justice White's adjudication, friction between the two countries continued. On Tuesday, however, the Panama minister was formally received in Costa Rica. Much of the healing of the breach was attributed to Mr. Hoover's tour. The apparent settlement eliminated one of the sore spots in Central American relations.

One hundred and forty turkeys—a total of 1,400 pounds for the entire ship, of which 1,200 is for the crew—steamed and simmered in the big electric ovens of the battleship and gave free turkey dinners to the usual line of men who are "down but not out." There is no unemployment problem to deal with but nevertheless there is a full quota of "human driftwood."

Hoover's Thanksgiving menu follows: Anchovy on toast. Salted almonds, celery and olives. Roast turkey, with chestnut dressing.

Giblet gravy, cranberry sauce, and glazed sweet potatoes. Graham muffins, asparagus tips, Macedoine salad. Cheese and crackers. Chocolate ice cream. Demi-tasse.

Thanksgiving service on the quarter deck was planned, if rain squalls did not prevent, by Chaplain Lieut. Commander B. F. Huske who will take for his text Deuteronomy, chapter eight, verse 10:

LAGUNA BOARD SEEKS DATA ON BEACH DEPUTY

LAGUNA BEACH, Nov. 29.—Sewers and beaches of this district came up for discussion at the regular meeting of the city council last night. A letter from the state health department, asked that no building permits be issued for hotels or motor inns which were designed to house 10 or more until adequate sewer connections are installed.

City Attorney White read a letter received from H. C. House in which House declined to remove a barbed wire fence which extends from his beach front property into the ocean. The obstruction has been there for some time, it was stated. The House property is near Arch Beach.

A report was made that House had placed a guard wearing a deputy sheriff's badge on the beach. The city attorney was instructed by the council to obtain more definite information of this matter. Mrs. Clemma Woods will be asked to replace a foot path in its former location on Woods point, the path having been removed to another place when a part of the Woods property was subdivided. The city attorney gave the opinion that public use of the path for the past five years had made it a public right-of-way.

The Broadway improvement $22,250 bond issue was sold to George Bond and son, of Santa Ana, the only bidders.

The council voted to purchase a dozen new rubber coats, a dozen rubber hats and four pairs of rubber boots for the use of the firemen.

A leave of absence to William W. Riddle, member of the council, was extended 30 days. Riddle is in Chicago.

all these objections with amendments and thereby save his bill from being thrust aside in favor of other bills pressing for early position—measures such as the naval crater bill.

The opposition has not decided what it will do, waiting to see first what Johnson will do to meet their objections. This group includes not only Smoot but Senators Ashurst and Hayden, Arizona Democrats, who in former sessions have joined with Smoot to filibuster against the measure. Smoot and Hayden have taken the position that the bill must be revised and they would like to have it sent back to a committee for the revision—a step which might kill the bill for this session.

The report will be made public when Mr. Coolidge presents it to congress the opening day of the session and then the maneuvering may be brought into the open.

YOUTH ADMITS HE STRANGLED MRS. HUNNICUTT

A six-foot piece of electric cord, with which her assailant is believed to have garrotted Mrs. Hunnicutt, was found in the house.

Randolph, according to District Attorney Bailey, said he had known the Hunnicutt family slightly. He had helped them move to Bakersfield some time ago from a nearby settlement. Mrs. Hunnicutt recently was separated from her husband and lived here with her three sons.

Passing by the Hunnicutt home, Randolph is said to have declared he entered the house and asked for a breakfast. Mrs. Hunnicutt served him a meal in the kitchen.

After eating, Randolph got up from the table and started to make advances toward his hostess, according to Bailey. When she repulsed him a struggle ensued. In his anger and in the excitement Randolph is said to have confessed he pulled an electric wire from the wall and improvised it into a noose with which he throttled the woman to death.

Randolph was captured in the home of his grandmother at tranquility, 70 miles north of here, and brought to the Kern county jail for safekeeping. He recently was paroled after having been sentenced to serve six months in the county jail for petty theft.

LIFE CREATION IS DEPICTED IN 'TREE OF LIFE'

BY CLARK RICHARDSON

It was a surprised crowd which left the Yost Spurgeon theater last night, after seeing on the screen a picture which had no plot but the immutable laws of God and a cast consisting only of a baby thrice larger than a pinhead.

The picture, titled "The Tree of Life," depicted a half a billion years of God's handiwork in a series of steps of progression so simple that a child was able to comprehend something of the handiwork of the Maker.

The picture lived up to the commendations of the late Dr. Frank Crane, minister, writer and philosopher.

"The Tree of Life" was made from a short scenario, written by a dozen world-famous scientists, who based their story on that noble work of H. G. Wells, "The Outline of History." In story form, "The Tree of Life" would be dry as dust, but on the screen it is a fascinating subject.

The picture opens with a shot of the mysterious star dust known as "fremium" and effectively demonstrates how the world was formed, how it cooled, how rain, falling on the heated rocks, formed the first soil and how the first forms of life were made.

Later we saw the scientific miracle of taking life out of the waters and the development of air breathing lungs. We saw the gigantic reptiles, the dinosaurs and fish eggs in which were tiny fish ready to be born. Scientists placed before our eyes for our acceptance or refusal the way in which we get our crude oil, from which is distilled the gasoline that propels our automobiles.

Later, as we came down the centuries, we saw that marvel of God's marvels—the human embryo develop from the egg to the child without the disgusting photographs which, if made, would kill the picture.

WOMEN WIN FROM MILE GOLF CHAMPS

DEL MONTE, Calif., Nov. 29.—

Walter Hagen and Johnny Farrell, nationally prominent golfers, were defeated here yesterday by Glenna Collett and Marian Hollins, equally well known as experts on golf courses, because the men could not overcome the handicap granted women for the exhibition.

The final score was two and one. Miss Collett and Hollins had been given a handicap of six strokes and played from the short tees while the men used the back tees.

Farrell's card of 75 was the best of the day, Hagen had an 80, Miss Collett an 84 and Miss Hollins an 83.

Zenith Aviation School Is Sold

Hadley Hershey, Santa Ana, and E. T. Dimock, Huntington Beach, aviators, have purchased the aviation school of the Zenith Aircraft Corporation and will conduct it in the future, according to an announcement made today.

For the past several months Hershey has been chief pilot for the aircraft corporation and is one of Santa Ana's best known aviators. Dimock also is a pilot at the Midway City airport.

San Pedro Man In Jail On 2 Counts

Joe Wilson Jr., San Pedro man, was arrested last night by Officers Walters and Duncan of the county fruit patrol and is being held in the county jail on a charge of possession of liquor and breaking glass on a highway.

Wilson, in an automobile, was stopped by the officers for questioning, when a small amount of liquor was said to have been found.

Co-operation Of Fans Needed For Cleanup Campaign

Another appeal for assistance and co-operation in our campaign to eliminate interference in Santa Ana.

Fans, if you didn't clip the questionnaire printed in yesterday's Register, don't fail to do so today, fill it out and mail it to The Register's Radio Editor immediately.

Co-operation of the fans is a necessity if the cleanup drive is to succeed and, from inquiries received during the last few days, we venture to say that it will not be lacking.

EXCHANGE CLUB OF BEACH CITY NOMINATES SIX

NEWPORT BEACH, Nov. 29.—

Six men were nominated for the presidency of the local Exchange club yesterday. Nominations will remain open until next Wednesday noon, when the election will be held. No other officers may be nominated until the president has been elected. Those named for the presidency of the club yesterday were Dr. G. M. Grundy, Lew Wallace, Lester Isbell, Charles Way, Harry Williamson and Judge W. A. Leonard.

The new officers, to be elected next week, will be named for a term of six months. The club members some time ago voted to elect officers for six months at the close of the terms of the present leaders.

Judge C. B. Diehl, Alvin Block and Earl Patterson, members of the Costa Mesa Lions club, were guests of the Exchange club yesterday, speaking on the baseball situation. Considerable discussion was given over to baseball. Lew H. Wallace, baseball commissioner of the Exchange club, resigned the position and Judge W. A. Leonard was appointed to fill the vacancy.

LA HABRA

LA HABRA, Nov. 29.—Edward Gill, son of Mrs. George Wolfe, has received his government license as an airplane pilot. He has been in training at the Fullerton airport for the past six months.

A deal was closed last week by which Mr. and Mrs. Clint Gutierrez purchased a house and lot on West Rose avenue from Roy Palmer, of Downey. They will take possession about December 1.

Miss Kate Sucksdorf, known by many residents of La Habra, passed away suddenly at her home in Los Angeles Saturday. She was a sister of William Sucksdorf, of East Whittier, and aunt of Arthur Sucksdorf, of La Habra.

Chief of Police Charles Wallace was around yesterday after having been confined to his home with influenza since the middle of last week. For a time the entire Wallace family was ill and Mrs. Wallace and two daughters are still confined to their home.

Mrs. Lillie Wiebke, of Lakeside, Ore., is a guest in the A. B. Stevens home.

Several boys of the B. Y. P. U. of the local Baptist church are attending convention at Pasadena this week.

Mr. and Mrs. John Flecher, of Ontario, were guests at a Thanksgiving dinner at C. A. Goodrich's. Mr. and Mrs. Ed Risner, of Ventura; Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Harp, of Long Beach, and Mr. and Mrs. Austin Ferrell, of Huntington Beach, were guests at a turkey dinner in the Ben Harp home.

NEWPORT CITY PLANNING MAP GOES TO BOARD

NEWPORT BEACH, Nov. 29.—

A planning map of the city of Newport Beach will be submitted to the city council next Monday night for the final approval of the city governing body.

The final stamp of approval was placed on the city planning measures at a public meeting here last night. The city planning map, which provides for all residential sections, business sections and other divisions of the city, has been prepared after several years of work on the part of a committee of five prominent citizens assisted by several of the foremost planning experts of Southern California.

Rollin McNitt, former chairman of the Los Angeles planning council; Gordon Whitnall, present director and manager of the Los Angeles city planning commission and Dr. Carol Aronovitch, well known planning expert have been assisting in preparing a comprehensive plan for the future growth and development of Newport harbor and vicinity.

A few minor changes were made in the planning map last night at the final hearing. Three sections in Corona Del Mar were changed to include multiple dwellings. They include blocks 131 and 132 in the west half of sections 133 and also a portion of block 23. A map of the proposed redivision of Newport Heights was approved by the planning body. The plan is said to tie in with the major traffic plan suggested by the planning consultants.

The city ordinance which is being suggested by the planning commissions and the consultants for future city building and the maps approved by the planning body will be submitted to the city council next Monday night. The council in turn will call a final intended to say that county planning, if established by the appointment of a county planning commission, would be a great help in assuring the success of bond issue proposals for water conservation projects, on which depend Orange county's agricultural and economic future. The last word appeared as "failure" instead of "future." For this mistake you should blame neither the author, the editor, the type setter, the proofreader nor the printer. It was the weather.

We suggest the following title be used in advertisements of the All-Year Club: "CALIFORNIA, LAND OF SPANISH MISSIONS AND BILLBOARDS."

At this writing there has come to us the happy news that the following organizations have endorsed the movement for a county planning commission and county planning.

Placentia Chamber of Commerce.

hearing on the proposed ordinance and maps and will ask for objections. Then if insufficient objections are made the planning maps and ordinance will be adopted by the city council and will govern all future city building. L. W. Briggs is chairman of the planning commission.

At the final meeting of the planning body Rollin McNitt, city planning consultant, explained that under the proposed city planning ordinance the city was zoned against oil development. Oil wells which are now operating here and refineries which are operating here will be allowed to continue in business. A petition signed by the owners of approximately 600 lots in the West Newport section of the city recently asked the city council to abolish all oil industries in the city. The matter was referred to the city planning commission.

It is probable that the council will follow the recommendation of the planning body to eliminate any oil industry in the future but to allow the present industry to continue. It is understood that steps are being taken by the Orange County Refining company, an oil products manufacturing concern, to eliminate alleged obnoxious odors coming from its plant.

Beautiful Mary Ann - By FANNIE HURST

The World's Highest Paid Short Story Writer

Author of "Humoresque",
"A President Is Born"

© McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

"BEAUTIFUL MARY ANN" was the way she was billed in the last of the great New York Revues in which she had appeared. It was a rather naive billing, but Mary Ann was indubitably that. "Sweet-Beautiful," Tom Davvers had called her the night he fell in love with her and proposed. And she was. Blue eyed in the way that sweet children are blue eyed. Shy of manner, yellow haired, slim ankled and with a lovely slim waist upon which hung loosely all the folderol, tinsel, bangles and plumes of the variety of costumes in which the Revue girls whirled on and off the stage.

It was in her third year with the Revue that Tom Davvers fell in love with her and took her back to his home up state, where he owned and operated a large dairy farm.

It was not a brilliant marriage, as marriages among Revue girls can go. At least it was not one of those newspaper headline marriages of chorus girl and peer. But in the main the girls, who realized to what extent those headline marriages are apt to be more fancy than fact, considered that Mary Ann had been lucky in love.

Tom was the sort of fellow who still revered the girl of his choice in a sort of way that had rather gone out of fashion. He could not seem to take in the beauty of the fact that Mary Ann was his. He was like a boy out of school. He frankly told the girls that he kept pinching himself to see if perhaps he were only in a dream.

And, capping the pleasant climax of the love story of Mary Ann and Tom, Mary Ann herself was lit with her love and her happiness. As sweetly bewildered in her way as Tom was in his. Almost afraid that the fragility and the preciousness of it might not endure. It did. Mary Ann and Tom were married in the Little Church Around the Corner, with twenty-two girls from the Revue for attendants and Tom's stepbrother, also an upstate farmer, for best man.

NOT that there was anything of the so-called "haysed" about Tom and his brother. They were boys who had been educated in state universities and who conducted their farms along scientific lines. They were prosperous young fellows, decent, ambitious and family loving.

Mary Ann had done well. And yet as the years marched on, those of the old girls of the Revue days who had seen Mary Ann on some of her subsequent if rare visits back to the city, took to looking appalled when the subject of the Davverses was mentioned.

The chorus has its alumnae, so to speak. An enormous one, containing the girls who have married or retired from the old ranks, making way for the younger ones and themselves either marrying, retiring, or—just petering out into the lamp-shade business, the teaching of dancing or—or—well, there are strange and dreadful hinterlands to the alumnae of the chorus.

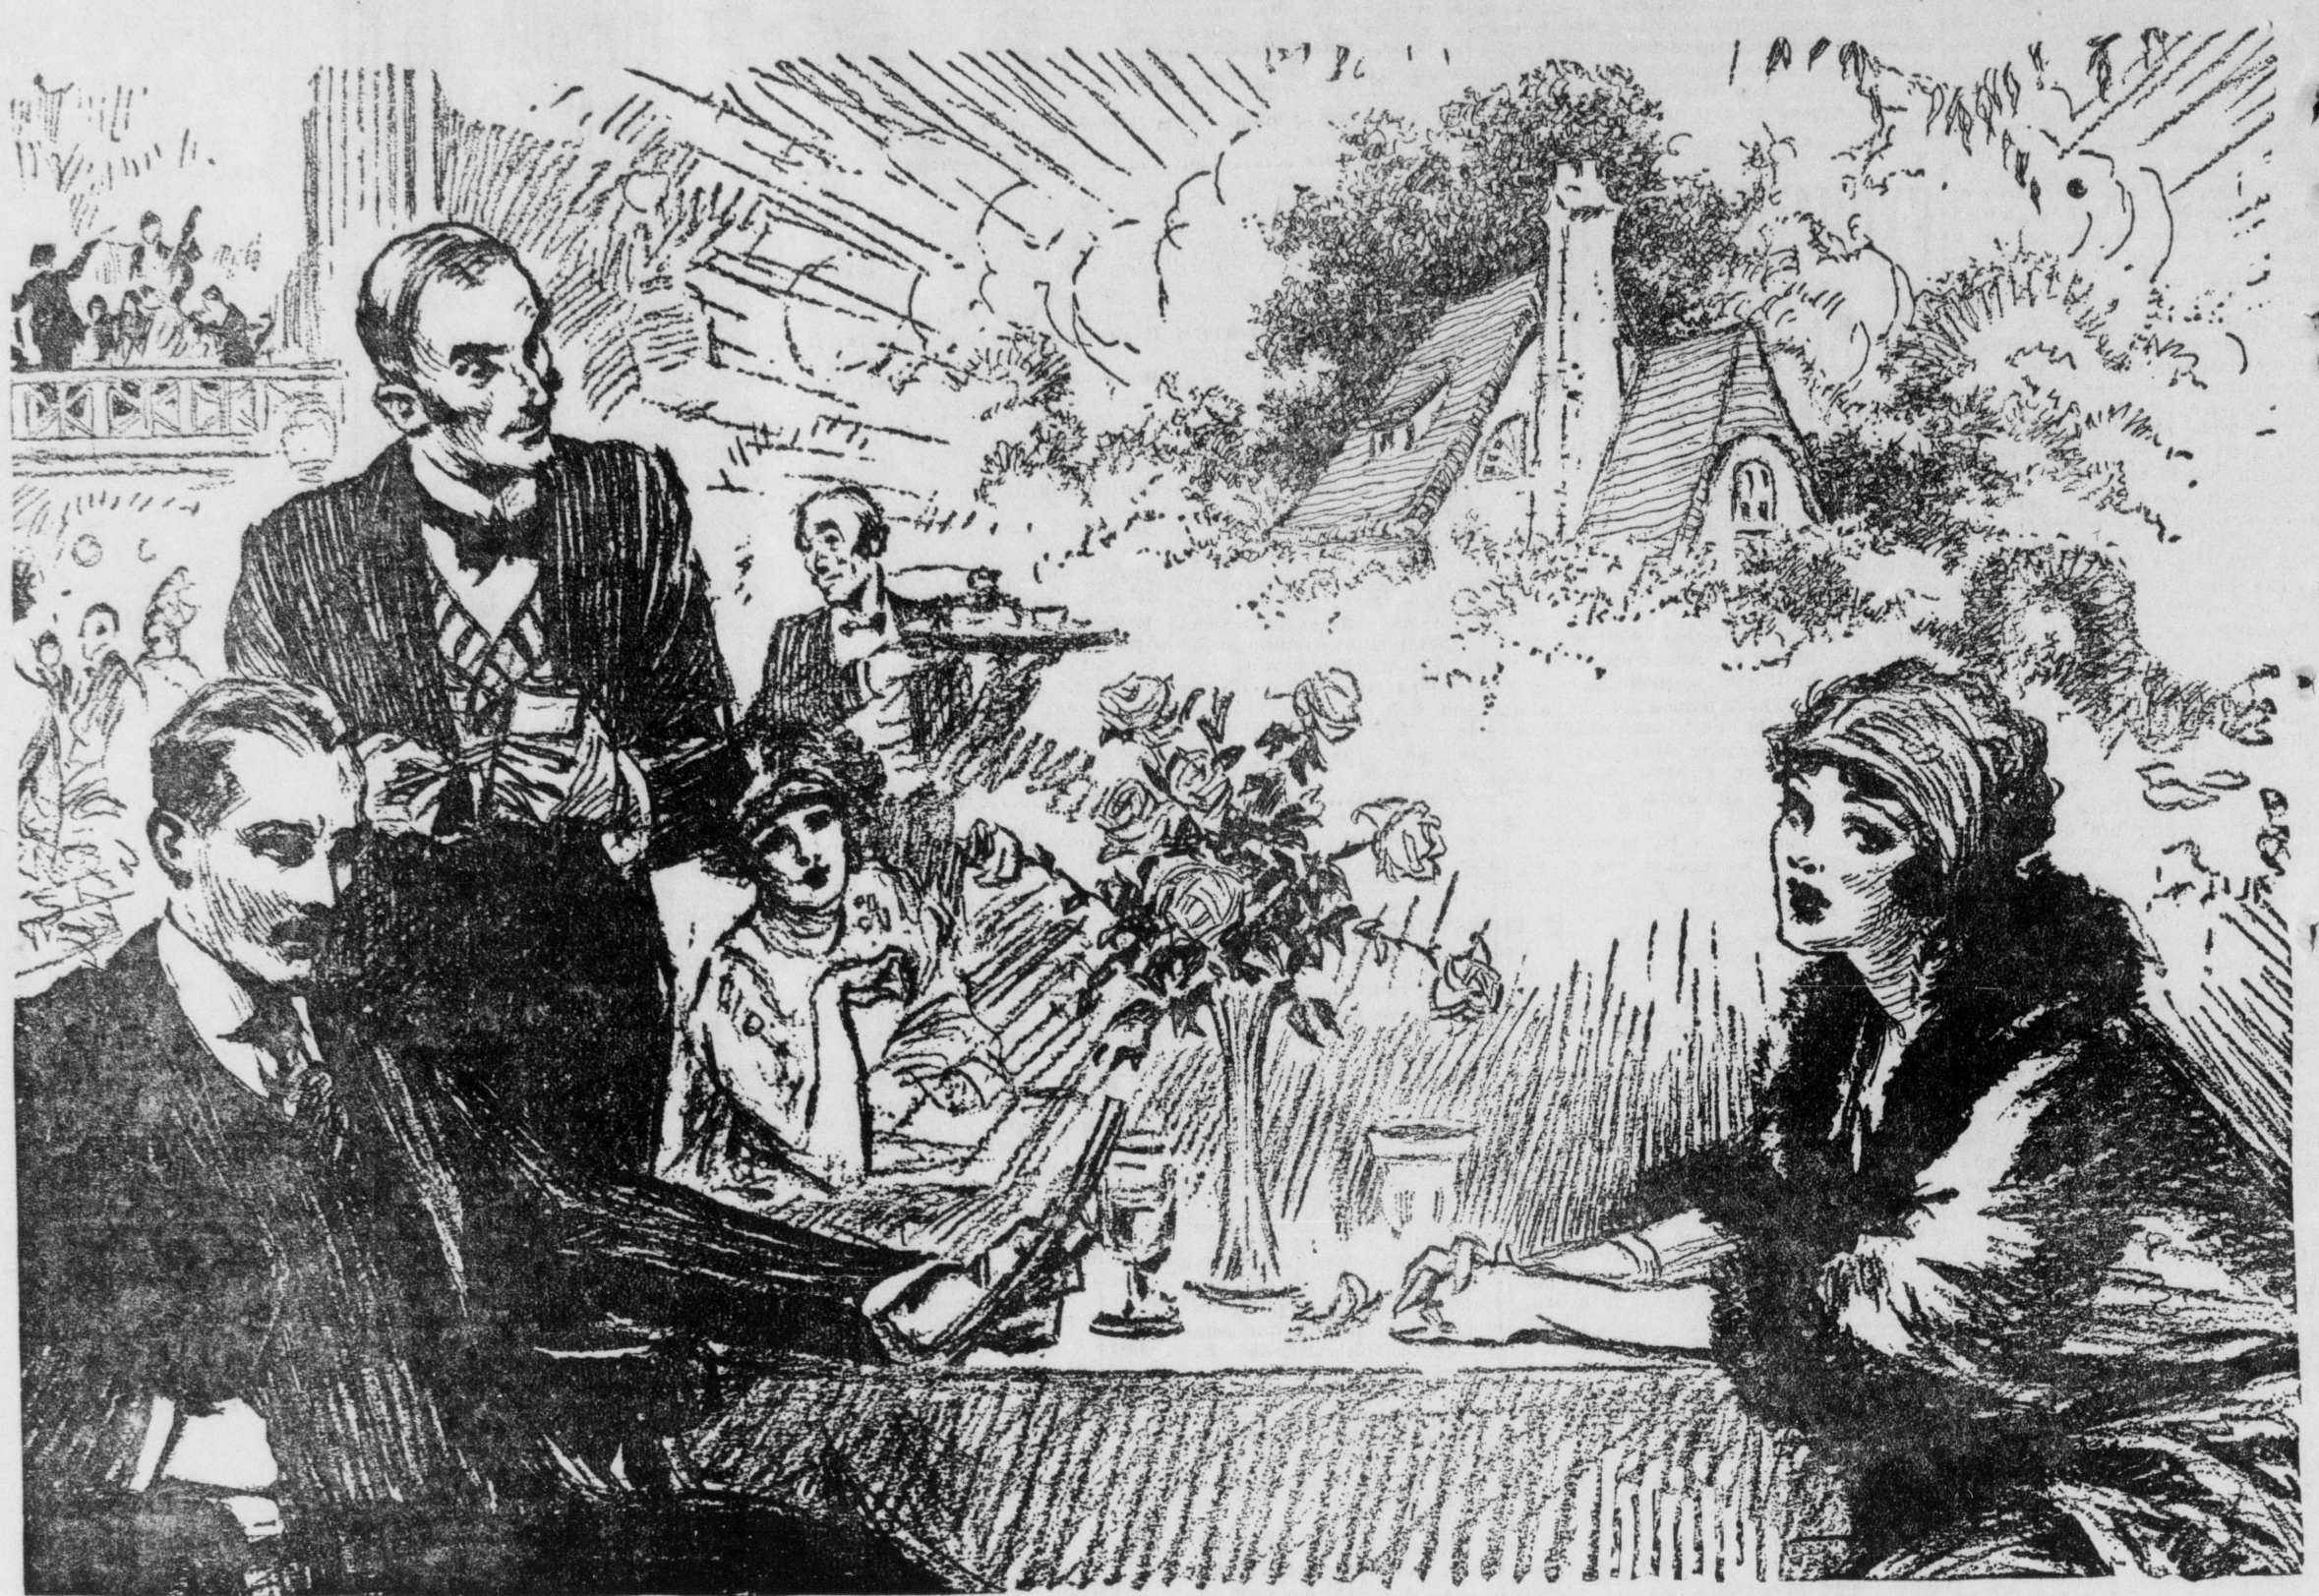

The girls who looked appalled, however, when Mary Ann was mentioned, were themselves usually the smugly married ones who looked back on the chorus days as brief and unreal periods of their lives that had to do with that remote time before there were husbands and babies and homes to make life full.

There is that smug element to the chorus alumnae. The girls who have just married and remained that way.

MARY ANN had, but the girls looked appalled just the same when they spoke of her. Mary Ann had "gone off so," as the saying goes. There was scarcely a vestige of her tender kind of beauty left. Five years after her marriage she had widened at the hips, become heavy of limb and shoulders, and a little sway-back from the constant carrying about of her two heavy babies.

Clothes just did not seem to matter now to Mary Ann. She wore them without thought. She seemed to have forgotten their power to charm. And then, besides, she had let herself go so that she would, perhaps, have looked outlandish in modish clothes. She was too broad, too sagging, too generally "let-down" to wear smart clothes with style.

Her love of pretty things she satisfied in the pretty clothes her daughter wore. In the wide expanses of sky that were part of her daily outlook there on her husband's farm. In the frost-spiked grass of autumn, the snow-sheathed trees of winter, the flashing, singing birds of spring, the flowers of summer.

"Sweet-Beautiful", Tom Davvers had called her the night he fell in love with her and proposed. And she was. Blue eyed in the way that sweet children are blue eyed. Shy of manner, yellow haired, slim ankled and with a lovely slim waist upon which hung loosely all the folderol, tinsel, bangles and plumes of the variety of costumes in which the Revue girls whirled on and off the stage.

But she had forgotten—or she ignored—the chance to hold her own beauty—the possibility that she might keep it intact even into age.

It was the old story. The girls who had married city men and remained in the stimulating urban atmosphere which requires that a woman conserve her body if she would conserve her youth, her charm, and her husband, were merciless in their indictments of Mary Ann.

"It's a girl's own fault if she lets herself go."
"A clever woman owes it to herself and her husband to keep up her looks."

"Fancy a girl, in this age, letting herself grow into a chunky little housewife—and with her beauty, too. Fool!"

THERE was little to be said in rebuttal. Mary Ann had let all that happen. Within the comfortable confines of her pretty farm home, Mary Ann had let go. Down went the rules of diet which she had been obliged to maintain in the days when part of chorus discipline was remaining slender. Down went her schedule for the care of her hair and her skin and her figure. Mary Ann was frankly, outrageously, lazily happy, and if Tom regretted the fading of the sweet, slim fay he had married, never by word or deed was she to hear it from him.

Their babies came in healthy succession, two sturdy youngsters, almost from the very start too heavy for Mary Ann to lug about. But she herself was such a baby with them. Loathe to leave them to the ministrings of the servants they could well afford, eager to play, happy in service.

If she felt herself growing overweight and a little gross, either she was indifferent to it or secure in the belief that to Tom it did not matter.

In a way, though, it did. She had been so inexpressibly lovely to him as a girl. The clear, heart-shaped face. The bright blue eyes of the child that she was, when he married her. The sweetness of mouth. It was hard to see them go. The eyes recede a bit behind puffs. The face thickens. The little waist that had been lithe, widens. It was hard, in a way, but not enough to matter. The sweetness of Mary Ann was untouched. With all her increasing bulk she was still a phantom of delight. A child with her children. A nature too sweet to be sullied by the close and often monotonous routine of the farm. She might no longer be Beautiful Mary Ann, but what a companion! What a mother, a housewife, a busy, contented little farm body.

MEDITATING on all these, the sense of loss that Tom sometimes felt over the retreating beauty of his wife went down before his gratitude for what she was.

No man, at least not a decent one like Tom, could live with the adorable and sweet-natured Mary Ann, and not feel a debt of gratitude to the kindly fate that had sent her to him.

It was when their son was about eighteen—and Mary Ann's jonquil-colored hair was a rather stringy gray, and her erstwhile sweet young bosom was crepe fleshed and her hips bulges—that a more definite kind of awareness did seem to settle over Mary Ann.

Two of the friends of long ago had been out to visit her. A pair of girls from the chorus who had married city men. They had been a shock to Mary Ann. They might have been her daughters. Slim, smooth-skinned, bright-haired, even boyish.

THE heart of Mary Ann was hurting after they had gone. If Tom noticed the contrast, and he did of course, being endowed with ordinary human nature and eyesight, it made only passing impression. Mary Ann had lost her looks, no doubt of that. Too bad. Foolish little woman to have let go. Shame. Ah, well, what did it matter! Mary Ann was Mary Ann.

That was true. She sheathed her pain at the revelation of self which the visit of her friends had brought down upon her head. But poor, futile dear, she began such secret deprivations as potatoes, to aid her figure, and a bit of henna wash to put sheen on her hair. It was not enough. Mary Ann, when her lovely daughter Adriane was sixteen and her son Edmund eighteen, was too far gone.

So her efforts were useless, futile. She might as well not have made them. Mary Ann was, indeed, too far gone for her beauty to come back at her rather frightened, inefficient bidding.

And yet a curious and more than sufficient compensation was in store for Tom and Mary Ann. Their son, at eighteen, began to develop the talent which ten years later was to make him one of the outstanding poets of his time. Richly were his parents to reap of this boy.

When Tom was twenty-eight, following the precedent of the poets who have sung most lyrically before thirty, he wrote the poem that was to bring him fame and that was to remain his most important work. It was a portrait of his mother as she appeared to him when she was forty.

It was called "BEAUTIFUL MARY ANN."

SHUN JAIL WHEN WORK IS REQUIRED

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 29.—(UP)—“No-work-no-eat” rule has ended the popularity of the Kansas City municipal farm at Leeds as a winter haven.

Those days in which prisoners caused themselves to be sent to the farm for the winter in order to have a place to eat and sleep, passed this year, and the reason is the requirement that the prisoners must work if they expect to eat.

In other winters, the number of inmates at the farm has totaled approximately 200, but so far this year the number has never gone above 100. The reason, James J. O'Rourke, superintendent, declares, is that the rock quarry, roads and coal pile require too much work. If any one shirks, he is taken into the dining room, placed at a separate table and denied food the others are given.

ACTRESS SUCCEEDS AT SELLING EGGS

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Nov. 29.—(UP)—Charged with selling storage eggs as fresh from the farm with the aid of a character actress, rural costumes and farm props, Herman Spalding, head of a produce company here, has been arrested for violation of state health laws.

A health department inspector found Mrs. Mary Chaplin, 50, selling eggs at a south side green market. On her truck was scrawled “Farm Products” in quaint lettering. She was dressed in heavy shoes, blue gingham and other pastoral effects.

But the eggs were months from a hen, tests showed.

Under questioning the woman admitted that she had been hired by Spalding to give the proper atmosphere and obtain high prices for his wares.

WHITE COLLAR LABORITES

LONDON, Nov. 29.—(UP)—“Horny-handed sons of toil” no longer bear the banner of the Labor Party. The white collar brigade is coming to the fore in the party ranks. Among the candidates endorsed for the next election are three baronets and the sons of two peers, two titled women, and two Prime Ministers' sons, Malcolm MacDonald and Oliver Baldwin.

There are 27 women among the Labor candidates. Among the other candidates are three professors, a pantomime producer, three novelists, two former diplomats, a cartoonist, a former missionary to China, a banker, a poet, and ministers, doctors, teachers, barristers, lawyers and three retired colonels.

THANKSGIVING PROGRAM TO BE GIVEN TONIGHT

Thanksgiving evening, with the last cheer dying away and the final football contest settled, the Seiberling Singers will close the gridiron year with a collegiate program de luxe that will have as its feature a medley of the far western “Alma Maters,” arranged by Frank Black, director of the Seiberling hour and one of America's foremost modern arrangers and composers. KFI will rebroadcast.

While club and fraternity houses echo with the revelry of victory, or defeat, the Seiberling Singers' quartet, the Seiberling “Singing Violins,” James Melton and Phil Ohman and Victor Arden, will duplicate the collegiate scene on the ether.

It should be just the sort of sparkling program suited to setting large helpings of turkey, cranberry sauce, ice cream, mince pie and all the rest of the items that make a Thanksgiving board groan. It promises revelry, spiced with at least one musical rarity alone worth dialing the Seiberling hour to hear—a repeat performance by the Seiberling “Singing Violins” of Massenet's “Meditation” from the opera “Thais.” This will be the third time the new-famous Seiberling violin chorus has been forced by a flood of requests to play this number.

For collegiate atmosphere, James Melton, Seiberling's own tenor, will turn his golden voice to that selection familiar to most undergraduate glee-club vocalists—“Because,” by d'Hardelot. Phil Ohman and Victor Arden, who returned recently from opening a new Broadway musical comedy hit in which they are starred, will play Ohman's own composition, “Jaquette,” on their two synopiating pianos. And the quartet will add “Sunny Disposish,” by Rodgers, and “No Foolin’,” by Hanley, in a super-collegiate manner.

The Seiberling hour, which is broadcast through the world's largest network for a regular, weekly, half-hour program—37 stations from coast to coast—goes on the air every Thursday

‘MYSTERY MAN’ BALKS ITALIAN COURT'S EDICT

CREMONA, Italy, Nov. 29.—(UP)—“The mystery man of Cremona,” concerning whose identity the Italian courts have been arguing for over a year is not at all satisfied with the decision declaring him officially to be Mario Bruneri.

He and the whole Canella family still declare with full conviction that he is Professor Giulio Canella, and the “mystery man” has written a book of 400 pages, entitled “In Search of Myself,” to prove his argument.

The “mystery man” was found some two years ago wandering about Turin suffering from a lapse of memory. Signora Canella, wife of Professor Giulio Canella, who had disappeared in the war, “recognized” the unknown as her missing husband. So did another woman called Bruneri, whose husband had also disappeared. The unknown recovered his memory at the moment Signora Canella claimed him as her husband, and declared that he was Canella and no other. He went off to the villa of the Canella family in Cremona, and lived with the lady who had claimed him as her professor husband lost in the war.

The Bruneri family brought an action to prove that the alleged “Canella” was Mario Bruneri, and the Turin court ordered an inquiry to be made.

Signora Canella is about to have a child by the man she insists is her husband, but whom Italian justice has now officially recognized as Bruneri.

Must Announce ‘Canned Music’

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—Radio stations broadcasting “canned entertainment” must announce the fact in plain, understandable language in the future.

The federal radio commission today ordered all stations using player pianos, phonographs or any other form of mechanical reproduction to explain to their listeners the nature of the instrument.

night, from 6 to 6:30 p. m., Pacific coast time. Close to 30 million listeners in will be able to dial the Thanksgiving day features, it is estimated.

POLY'S BASKETBALL SCHEDULE ANNOUNCED

Warner Worried By Colds Contracted By Cardinals

TEAM BELIEVES IT WILL DEFEAT CADET ELEVEN

By WILLIAM J. DUNN
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)
RYE, N. Y., Nov. 29.—"Pop" Warner, veteran coach of Leland Stanford football squad, is not taking a winner in the Saturday game with Army.

Warner sat in the reception room at the Westchester Biltmore club here today and discussed the game in a rather non-committal manner.

"Looks as though they have a better team than we have," he observed. "At least their record is more impressive."

Some one suggested that Army had a better record than Notre Dame before their game several weeks ago. A slow smile crossed Warner's face, but he said nothing. After a pause he spoke again:

Will Play Hard
"You can bet we'll play hard, doing our best. Who can tell what will happen? Modern football is an uncertain game."

"I haven't an Ernie Nevers in my lineup this year but the whole bunch looks pretty good some times. We'll give a good account of ourselves."

The trip from the coast, completed last night, was without a mishap, he said. None of the men appeared fatigued by the long train ride and he thought a night's rest and a workout this morning "will put them back in good condition."

Warner admitted a little worry concerning slight colds several members of the squad contracted before they left the Pacific coast for last Saturday's game with California.

Aside from that the entire squad is ready for action now, he said. The team members believe they will win but, like Warner, they are reluctant to discuss the game.

"I think we can stop them," Capt. "Biff" Hoffman, study full-back said. "It'll be a tough game, though."

Warner expects to start the game team against Army that held California to a 13-13 tie in last Saturday's game.

Preston and Muller are his regular ends; Sellman and Artman, the tackles; Post and Robeske, the guards; and Heineke, the center. In the backfield are Captain Hoffman at full, Welton and Lums at the halfback positions and Fleischacker at quarter.

Even Money To Reign At Irish Game

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 29.—Notre Dame and Southern California, meeting Saturday in their third consecutive inter-sectional clash, probably will be even money bets at kickoff.

A survey of Los Angeles gambling marts today revealed this condition—almost amazing in view of the respective performances of the rival elevens this season.

Southern California will enter the game undefeated and tied only once, by California, while Notre Dame has lost 1 Wisconsin, Georgia Tech and Carnegie Tech.

The no-favorite situation is a tribute to past performance of the Rambling Irish, to their coach, Knute Rockne, and to certain of his pupils, Chevigny, Neimic and Collins.

Southern California still remembers the 13-12 defeat here in 1922 and the 7 to 6 loss in Chicago, in 1927. It remembers that Knute Rockne was at the helm when those games were chalked up against the Trojans.

The prowess of Chevigny and Collins is well known, while Neimic rates as the poison who snatched a left-handed pass from Parisien to give the Irish a win in 1926.

VIOLETS FACE OREGON STATE MINUS CAPTAIN

BY FRANK GETTY
(United Press Sports Editor)
NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—Without their giant captain, Al Lassman, who lies on a sickbed in a Pittsburgh hospital, the New York University football eleven faced the Oregon State Aggies at Yankee stadium today in the outstanding inter-sectional battle of the day.

Lassman, who was injured in the Carnegie Tech game, will listen to the game over a special wire installed by his bedside.

"Win for Lassman" was the motto of the Violets as they trotted out for what may prove to be their hardest test of the season.

Coach Chick Meahan brought the Violets to the peak last week in their amazing 27 to 13 victory over the conquerors of Notre Dame and the dapper little N.Y.U. mentor was pessimistic over the outcome of today's game.

Expect Tough Game
"This game may prove tougher than any we have played all season," Meahan said. "Our boys are bound to have a letdown."

Kenneth Strong, who has been conceded a place in the All-American backfield, and Cowboy Ed Hill, his unsung running mate, were expected to lead the Violets to victory. Hill has gained a reputation as the most vicious interfering back in the east and is the man who has made many of Strong's long runs possible.

N.Y.U. was a 2 to 1 favorite in the betting, but many football followers recalled that practically the same conditions existed before the Georgetown game, which N.Y.U. lost, 7 to 2.

Despite defeats at the hands of Southern California, Washington State and Oregon, the invaders had high hopes of scoring one of the biggest upsets of the football season.

Crowd of 50,000

Clemmons In Win Over V. Sanchez

MITCHELL FIELD, N. Y., Nov. 29.—(UP)—Battling Clemmons, Kansas City lightweight, defeated Vincent Sanchez of Spain in an 8-round bout here last night. Sanchez weighed 133, Clemmons 134. The westerner won every round except the third.

ROCKNE'S HOPEFULS IN CLASH WITH U. S. C. SATURDAY

It is generally believed by football fans the country over that regardless of the many obstacles in his way, Knute Rockne will have an outstanding football eleven representing Notre Dame. Loss of veterans, lack of material, lack of outstanding stars—those cries mean nothing to the admirer of Rockne. Most of them think all the sage of South Bend has to do is say presto! and his team will be an outstanding one.

Rockne warned the world not to expect too much of his Notre Dame outfit this year and from previous games this fall his warnings were straight. But the Irish have a trick of playing over their heads and the brush with Coach Howard Jones's boys is expected to be a thriller.

There wasn't much left of Rockne's 1927 team. John Niemiec, his best back, has been saved as much as possible during the season and will probably play the game of the year against Southern California. Chevigny and Jack Elder, the latter a track star, are his first-string halfbacks, and Dinny Shay is his field general this year. Fred Miller, the son of a Milwaukee millionaire, plays tackle and is captain of the team. George Leppig is a guard of some experience. These are the men who will bear the brunt of the Notre Dame attack this year.

B TEAM LUCKY WINS CONTESTS DOESN'T PLAY

Miracles will happen and wonders never cease and the Santa Ana high school is still rejoicing over the fact that its Class Bee football team won half a game during the whole season and had THREE wins handed to them on a silver platter.

First, Pasadena forfeited its game because of a shakeup due to illegal fraternities in the school.

Second, Long Beach had to forfeit to the Saints because they used an illegal player in the first game.

Third, the Polytechs were all sick so were going to forfeit to San Diego. San Diego was also sick and beat them to the forfeit, so the Saints stay in bed and still win the game.

Wiscrackers are saying that Santa Ana will win the league yet if they don't watch out, which doesn't look very probable, however. As a result of all the jumbled forfeits and whatnot, no one knows just where Santa Ana stands in the percentage column but it is undoubtedly second or third, which isn't so bad for losing all your games, especially by scores such as 33 to 0, 39 to 0 and others not quite so bad.

OIL TANKER PICKS UP THREE AVIATORS

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—(UP)—The Sinclair Oil company advised the United Press today that the master of its tanker Madrono had reported picking up three men from a plane at sea yesterday.

The men's names were reported as Charles Sellick, Clarence Subers and William Simpson. The master did not identify the men further or describe the plane.

The rescue was made at latitude 27.05, longitude 79.46, the report said, which would be about 85 miles off the east coast of Florida.

The Madrono is expected to land at Philadelphia Saturday, the oil company said.

U. S. C. FOOTBALL STARS WITH TALK AT COLLEGE BANQUET COACH HOWARD JONES WILL

Details are now being arranged by Santa Ana junior college officials to have several noted football stars present at the annual junior college football banquet to be held in the college cafeteria, December 13.

Coach Howard Jones, U. S. C. mentor, will address the team, and Jesse Hibbs, Don William, Jeff Cravath, Aubrey Devine and other Trojan stars will probably be present.

The Associated Women Students of the college are sponsoring the affair, and the football team will be the guests. The banquet will be held in the nature of a stag party, however, as only football players and the star guests will be present.

The banquet is an annual affair at the college, and the earned letters are given out at the dinner. Preparations are being made to make this year's celebration the biggest ever staged at the local junior college, according to Lyles McNary, program chairman.

COUGARS FAVORED TO BEAT HUSKIES

SEATTLE, Nov. 29.—Washington State today ruled a slight favorite to defeat the University of Washington here this afternoon in the annual football classic between the two institutions.

Good football weather and a splendid advance sale of seats gave promise of a crowd of 30,000 fans who will forgo their Thanksgiving dinner until either the Cougars or the Huskies hold the state championship.

The Cougars, although confident they can take the measure of the Huskies, are not underestimating the ability and strength of their rivals.

They will enter the game with the avowed intention of "stopping" Chuck Carroll, Washington's great triple-threat halfback.

Carroll today will play his collegiate game and will try his hand at "stopping" Washington State.

WHAT PRICE EDUCATION! PITTSBURGH, Nov. 29.—Christian Nelson, young Danish medical student at the University of Pittsburgh, travels 50 miles a day from Allquippa to the university to get his education and still finds time to work eight hours a day, seven days a week for a railroad company.

Three Big Games Remain Unplayed On Pacific Coast

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 29.—(INS)—The regular football season of the Pacific coast will come to a close today but there still are three games remaining to be played—and all of them are piquant dishes for the football fan.

Southern California, Pacific coast conference champion, and Notre Dame meet in Los Angeles Saturday; picked team representing the east and west will meet in the annual Shrine contest in San Francisco on December 29 and California and Georgia Tech are expected to provide the entertainment at the annual Tournament of Roses game in Pasadena on New Year's day.

Washington and Washington State wind up the season in Seattle today.

Another turkey day engagement is scheduled between the University of California at Los Angeles and Oregon, to be played at Los Angeles. Oregon is conceded an easy victory.

ANKLE BOUQUETS ST. LOUIS, Nov. 29.—(UP)—An ankle bouquet, with a centered orchid surrounded by sprays of lily of the valley, was introduced at the fall flower show here.

Possibility Of Big Red Game Fades

The Santa Ana-Fullerton post season contest will not be played this year. Old man Influenza, who is having considerable to say about which way football games shall go, has taken a hand and has ruled that the Big Red team from the northern Orange county city shall not play the Saints. It is not alone the fact that players are ill that is postponing the game.

At a meeting, yesterday, Santa Ana high school players expressed themselves in favor of a game with Fullerton if it could be arranged this week. The players declared they did not wish to keep in training any longer as the league schedule is closed and school also is closed because of the flu. Several Santa Ana players, as well as Coach "Tex" Oliver, are down with the illness.

Santa Ana schools have closed until December 10 and, according to Coach Bill Fouts, who represented Oliver at the session yesterday, the Santa Ana boys stated that they did not want to continue practice when there is no school.

Fullerton has a game with Orange today and probably could not be induced to play either this week or next.

MACIAS WINS OVER MARKS IN WILD BATTLE

"Wildman" Macias, Los Alamitos playboy, who has slugged his way through a half dozen battles at the Orange County Athletic club during the past three months, winning from better boxers most of the time, kept his record clean again last night when he knocked out Rolly Marks, Philadelphia, in the second round.

The "Wildman" took more punishment last night than he is wont to do, in order to win and to Marks goes the distinction of being the first to have the Los Alamitos batter on the floor.

Macias, for the better boxer, opened up an attack on Marks in the first round that made the fight look like it would be one of those that start and stop before the fans know what has happened. He pushed over a mighty right to Macias' chin that sent the barrel-chested wildman to the floor for a nine count, but the end of the round found Macias plugging away, landing with everything he had.

In the second, the action changed. Macias was all over his man, and finally landed a blow to the stomach which was more than Marks could digest.

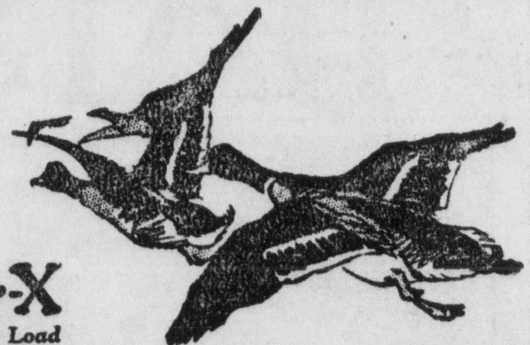

"Boiler-maker" Jones, who is said to fight main events in several amateur clubs throughout the Southland and who was pitted against Ace Marks, the Long Beach flash, for the semi-windup, last night, decided he didn't care to meet the clever Pacific Coast Club fighter, and Eddie Benson, El Modena, substituted, and won the decision, after Marks had injured his hand in the first round and was forced to retire. Marks' injury may keep him out of the ring for several months, it was said.

Cliff Burrier, Bolsa, opened up all of his guns in his return match against Melvin Long, Santa Ana, in the fourth spot on the card, and proved satisfactorily that he was the better of the two boxers. A week ago there was some doubt in the minds of the customers after they saw the two battle for four rounds, but all this was eliminated when Long took a long count in the third round.

Jim Jeffries, grand old man of the ring of a generation ago, appeared and refereed one of the preliminaries. Always a booster of amateur clubs, Jeff made a few remarks about the necessity of building fighters from the ranks. He was well received by the fans, many of whom still remember him as their idol among the past heavyweight champions.

Clean Kills with Super-X The Long-Range Load

In the shot charge of the WESTERN Super-X shell, a greater number of pellets are effective than in any other long-range load. More pellets reach the bird! You get clean kills at long distances—and you get more game!

These advantages are the results of the exclusive Short Shot String feature of Super-X. The flight of the pellets is controlled so that they travel through the air in a compact mass, instead of stringing out.

Shoot Super-X for ducks, geese and turkeys—and WESTERN's popular-priced Xpert shell for quail and rabbits. See us for hunting supplies.

CURBING NEWS ABOUT FOREST FIRES URGED

By ED JOHNSON
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
(Special to The Register)

SACRAMENTO, Nov. 29.—A gag rule to prevent accurate news of the fires which annually rage through thousands of acres of California's timber lands from reaching California taxpayers has been proposed by influential groups. It was learned here today.

This proposal may be the source of considerable fireworks when the regional forest protection board meets in Fresno early next month, it was indicated.

The meeting originally was called to discuss better methods of coordinating fighting forces between federal and state employees in event of another blaze like the disastrous Sequoia National park fire this season.

There were indications, however, that spirited discussions would arise between factions who favor giving the public the facts and those who believe in suppressing the news.

In a communication to a large Southern California newspaper, a member of the forest board declared fires had become "routine news" and expressed satisfaction that this newspaper had not given prominence to one fire story.

The board is composed of authorized heads of governmental agencies. The state division of forestry, the U. S. park service and the U. S. forest service will be represented.

This meeting also will review the Sequoia National park fire and determine where better and more efficient work could have been done. The fire loss there was declared to be one of the heaviest in the history of the state, with the exception of the San Francisco bay region fire of 1906.

Actual cost of fighting the fire was placed at $25,000 while the cost of timber, brush and grass burned over was placed at $276,000. This was estimated on the arbitrary valuation of $12 per acre for 23,000 acres.

State rangers and men from the national park and forest service combined to battle this blaze, which raged through large stands of timber unchecked. It was believed better co-ordination between the agencies would have done much to check the fire sooner.

TUG-OF-WAR DRIES UP

MT VERNON, Ia., Nov. 29.—(UP)—Freshmen and Sophomores of Cornell College, here, no longer engage in their traditional tug-of-war on homecoming days for the simple reason that the pool of water through which they formerly sought to drag each other had dried up.

These modern days, business needs lots of "pepping up." The Register Classified Ads furnish the right dope. Phone 87.

Anaheim Citrus Fruit Growers Receive $123,712.84

PAYMENTS ON OFF BLOOM TO BE SENT SOON

ANAHEIM, Nov. 29.—Returns of $123,712.84 were made to growers connected with the Anaheim Citrus Fruit Growers' association yesterday for fruit shipped in the fourth pool, which extended from September 28 to October 23. There were 20,382 packed boxes in the pool.

The returns to growers to date from this association totals $1,051,557.09, representing the payment on 187,288 packed boxes. The growers are due to receive more checks in a few days when returns will be made on the off bloom pool. This payment is expected to total $56,000. The association concluded operations in November.

Unique Benefit Is Planned On Dec. 20 For War Veterans

ANAHEIM, Nov. 29.—A unique benefit is being planned for the war veterans at Sawtelle by the members of the Orange County American Legion council who will co-operate with California theater management. The affair will be a "cigarette benefit" show and will be held in the California theater December 20.

The admission price will be two packages of cigarettes which will be sent to the ex-soldiers. In addition to the feature film the Broadway players will give a play and special vaudeville acts will be presented.

Brea Chest In Benefit On Saturday

BREA, Nov. 29.—Directors of the Community chest have completed plans for a benefit program as the opening wedge in their campaign, the program to be presented at the Red Lantern theater Saturday night, it was announced today by E. H. Peterkin, chairman.

The program will include a feature and comedy reel and several singing and dancing numbers, the latter to be presented by pupils of Miss Clare Coutant's school and in which the little daughters of Dr. and Mrs. W. E. Jackson will appear. Bobbie Shanks, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Shanks, will be featured in dances.

DISCUSS PLANS FOR CHEST AT C. OF C. SESSION

BREA, Nov. 29.—Plans for the Community chest were made at yesterday's meeting of the Brea Chamber of Commerce.

Resignation of Ralph Barnes as secretary of the organization was accepted and Waldo Minor elected to the place. Barnes remains treasurer but wished to be free from secretarial duties because it was impossible for him to attend all the hurried board meetings which will be necessary during the campaign period.

A meeting of the board of directors will be called within a short time, probably tomorrow, when definite plans for the actual raising of the funds, the organizations to be assisted, the amount of the goal set and campaign workers selected.

Archie Raitt, secretary of the Orange county Y. M. C. A., was present and offered suggestions that were valuable as to organization of the campaign body and the collection of funds.

MOBILIZATION PLAN OUTLINED BY AUTHORITY

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—(UP)—War department mobilization plans in the event of a grave national emergency provide for call to arms of six field armies, aggregating 3,500,000 men from an estimated national man power of 18,000,000. General Charles P. Summerall, Chief of Staff, informed Secretary of War Davis in his annual report made public today.

Mobilization plans have been revised, Summerall said, in such manner to consolidate importantly the man power of the nation.

Success or failure of America's defense, he explained, would depend largely upon the readiness of two elements of first line land defense, the Regular army and the National Guard. Although the present standard of individual training is high, Summerall said the fact must be faced that time must elapse before complete divisions would be ready for combat.

The average American soldier in the World War received eight months training before entering the line in a quiet sector and remained 30 days in the quiet area before going into a major battle. "We cannot expect," Summerall continued, "that in operations on this continent we will be able to wait until units have reached full strength before they are ordered into campaign. Considerable time will elapse before we can assemble the component parts required for satisfactory performance by our divisions. Our training must always be directed toward a further decrease in the time required for their transformation into readiness for campaign."

"Experience has shown that the readiness of units is a variable factor. Even now in each of the components of the army there are units which, due to favorable conditions in their locality or the enthusiasm of their personnel, are better prepared for field service than are other units assigned to an earlier priority in the initial mobilization plan."

Summerall complimented the "high state of efficiency" of every rank of the army and said the nation had reason to be proud of the personnel.

HOUSES MOVED

SMELTZER, Nov. 29.—Two of the houses belonging to the Aldrich Land company have been sold and are being moved out of town. The large house on the south side of the boulevard at the west of the row of homes goes to Westminster while one of the smaller houses located across the street has been sold to a party at Talbert and is being moved there.

POOR AT MESA GIVEN FOOD BY SCHOOL PUPILS

COSTA MESA, Nov. 29.—Poor people at the Costa Mesa district were given large baskets of food and other articles today. Yesterday, children of the local grammar school appeared at their classes with gifts of various sorts, which were presented to the Parent-Teacher association. Mrs. L. C. Slothower, chairman of the welfare committee is in charge of the arrangements for the distribution of the Thanksgiving gifts. Jam, home made pies, cakes and other edibles were included among the articles brought by the school children.

The program of giving to the poor of the district is one followed each year by the grammar school children and the Parent-Teacher association.

CAVE MAN IS MYTH, STATES INVESTIGATOR

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—(UP)—The cave man myth has been exploded.

He has only a secondary position in his own home, a visitor to the home of the Pueblo Indian cave men, in Santa Clara, N. M., found. And the spouse rules the home as well as his worldly goods.

Seeking out the homes of the original cave men of the United States, far away from the cities where now and then a so called "cave man" makes his appearance much to the awe of a large following, Andrew S. Wing visited one of the 20 Pueblo villages remaining in Arizona and New Mexico, delved into their family customs and their history. He found them still loyal to the Catholic faith, maintaining a family life exceptionally free from friction and rearing children who are obedient and of the best behavior.

"The Pueblo woman is the absolute master of her home," Wing asserts in Farm and Fireside. "There is no individual land ownership but each man is allotted a piece of land which he can cultivate as long as he works at it industriously. When the crops are harvested and stored in the house they become the property of the wife. Most Pueblo marriages are successful and their family life is congenial. All observers comment on the obedience and good behavior of the Pueblo children."

In one great communal cliff house explored by the writer, 1600 rooms were discovered.

MIDWAY CITY

MIDWAY CITY, Nov. 29.—Mrs. Armand Heil, who last week was operated on at the Santa Ana Valley hospital, has returned to her home in Midway City. Mrs. Heil was at the home of her mother-in-law, Mrs. E. S. Heil, for a few days after leaving the hospital until her return home. Mrs. Heil's mother, Mrs. Rusk, of Anaheim, will remain in the Heil home until Mrs. Heil has fully recovered.

Mr. Rumbold, of Santa Barbara, father of Ralph Rumbold, of this place, is a visitor in his home.

Ed. L. Hensley is confined to his home suffering an attack of influenza and has been under a physician's care since Sunday.

Mrs. J. E. Miller, wife of the proprietor of the Miller service station at Midway City, who was taken ill a week ago at the family home in Pasadena, is still confined with an attack of influenza.

Miss Florence Boosy, teacher of the eighth grade of the Westminster grammar school, who makes her home with Mr. and Mrs. Hensley, left Monday with the closing of the school, for Riverside, where she will remain until Sunday with relatives.

Mrs. C. H. Huyler and daughter are ill with influenza.

Mrs. Stogsdill, wife of one of the proprietors of the Farrar and Stogsdill grocery in Midway City, is ill with influenza.

The Rev. and Mrs. Arthur Worthy, of Long Beach, were Sunday visitors in the home of the Rev. Mr. Worthy's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Worthy.

Mr. and Mrs. J. McKenzie also have been entertaining guests. Mr. and Mrs. Murry, friends from Santa Ana, were visitors Saturday, the family having just moved to this locality. Mr. Murry having taken a position as representative of the Hauser Construction company. Miss Ethel McKenzie, sister of J. McKenzie, and Mr. Bow, a friend from Long Beach, were guests, it being Mrs. McKenzie's first time out since she suffered an attack of influenza.

Mrs. J. Walters is confined to her home with the influenza and is reported very ill.

20 CANDIDATES JOIN ANAHEIM LODGE OF ELKS

ANAHEIM, Nov. 29.—Twenty new members joined the local Elks lodge last night at the regular meeting. This was one of the largest classes to be inducted in the lodge for some time, according to officers of the lodge.

The meeting also marked the official visit of the district deputy grand exalted ruler, William C. Jerome, of Santa Ana.

Officers from the Santa Ana and Orange lodges were present. A 6 o'clock turkey dinner was served before the lodge convened.

Harry D. Riley, exalted ruler of the local lodge, was in charge of the meeting.

ENJOY HOLIDAY

ORANGE, Nov. 29.—A number of teachers of Orange union high school are spending vacations out of town over Thanksgiving. Miss Hannah Nesser and Mrs. Nellie Kline are spending a few days in San Diego; Miss Harriet Nobbs went to Redwood, Miss Genivieve Conger is visiting Miss Agnes Durbin at Berkeley and Miss Ethel Walker, her sister, Miss Velda Walker, and her mother, Mrs. J. Walker, enjoyed a family reunion at San Luis Obispo.

MUSIC PUPILS TO PRESENT PROGRAM

ORANGE, Nov. 29.—Pupils of the music department of the Orange high school are preparing for their first music recital of the year, which is to be given early next month. This will be an after school recital and all but two of the piano pupils will take part.

LOS ALAMITOS

LOS ALAMITOS, Nov. 29.—Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Rose are entertaining relatives from Fresno who arrived to spend Thanksgiving day here.

Ralph Nachter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Nachter, who has been under the doctor's care the past two weeks, is reported doing nicely and plans to resume his school duties next Monday.

Mrs. Eva Morrow, sister of Mesdames Julia Blagg and Flora Berg, is able to be at her work again after a serious illness.

Mrs. C. H. Keene has been suffering from a fractured bone in her foot for the past week and is still under the doctor's care.

Mrs. William Mix and four sons were dinner guests in the home of Mrs. Mix's uncle in San Pedro Sunday.

Rush P. Green has moved his family from Howard street to Farquhar street in the Ruth Thompson house. Mr. Green sold his property to C. E. Allen, of Long Beach.

Mrs. C. E. Wakefield, a school teacher at Laurel school, who has been ill two weeks with double pneumonia, is improving.

Mrs. M. Ford is able to be out again after a two weeks illness. Orville Wachter is home on a four-day furlough from the navy.

Los Alamitos has the distinction of having one of her boys on the U. S. S. Maryland, on which Herbert Hoover is a passenger. He is Eugene Heyings, of Chestnut street.

Mrs. William Armfield reports the loss of her police dog from her car while parked in Long Beach.

Mrs. Floyd Gillis is seriously ill at her home.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Seay are the parents of a baby boy, born to them at their new home on Green street.

PREPARED FOR FOG

GLASGOW, Nov. 29.—(UP)—Duncan McEwan, Glasgow scientist and member of the British association, has no fear of losing his way in rain or fog. He carried the firmament with him. The scientist possesses a perfect map of the stars, adjusted to scale in the top of his umbrella.

Brea-Olinda High, Grade Schools To Reopen On Dec. 3

BREA, Nov. 29.—Brea grammar schools and the Brea-Olinda high school closed yesterday, both to open again on December 3. While not many cases of influenza have developed in Brea schools, several students have been forced to drop out because of the disease and it was thought the short vacation would prove beneficial.

C. O. Harvey, principal of the school, is improving following an attack of influenza and most of the teachers absent because of it have been able to return to their work.

BEAN WAREHOUSE AT SMELTZER OPENS

SMELTZER, Nov. 29.—The Golden West lima bean warehouse at Smeltzer has resumed operations. The season is expected to be concluded within a few weeks.

Mr. Sharp, foreman of the warehouse, who was injured several weeks ago, was able to be at the house this week to assist in supervising the work.

KIWANIS CLUB HEARS TALK ON THANKSGIVING

Declaring that Thanksgiving is the most unique of all holidays on the calendar, Dr. Benjamin Sherwood Haywood, pastor of the White Temple Methodist church, Anaheim, in an address at the meeting yesterday of the Santa Ana Kiwanis club, pointed out that it is not a day of observance of any battle, the fall of a battle, nor of any national event.

"Thanksgiving comes in the homely garb of the common folk and it is a folk festival," the pastor said, in stressing the point that it was founded on the idea of returning thanks to the Almighty for abundance of crops and happiness of the people during the 12 months preceding.

The speaker mentioned the home life in the United States—not duplicated by any other nation on the earth—the educational system, the friendship and the faith of our fathers in the Savior as among the causes for giving thanks. He particularly stressed the conditions in California and Orange county as obligating the residents to pronounced thankfulness to the Supreme Being for the blessings they enjoy.

At conclusion of the meeting, Vice President Fred Forgy, in the absence of President Dr. H. MacVicker Smith, paid tribute to the Rev. R. H. Silverthorn, assistant pastor of the First Presbyterian church, who is leaving for Palo Alto to take up new duties there.

E. P. Westcott was program chairman and he presented Sally Scales in a group of vocal solos, accompanied by Miss Ruth Armstrong.

WHEN JAPAN CROWNED NEW EMPEROR

With all the ancient pomp and ceremony that marked its coronations of centuries ago, Japan crowned a new emperor the other day. The top picture, transmitted over Japanese telephone wires and rushed to this country, shows the emperor arriving in his carriage at the ancient capital of Kyoto where the coronation ceremony was held. At the left, workmen are putting up a sign to show that headquarters of the government has been moved temporarily to Kyoto. At the right, noted women writers and painters of Japan are inscribing messages of happiness on the occasion of the mikado's coronation. Below, priests are seen conveying sacred wine to the palace for use in the ceremony.

ALKALI LAND RECLAMATION TEST STARTED

Another move in the campaign for freeing certain Orange county areas of the menace of black alkali had been taken today with the launching of two experiments near Anaheim by T. L. Collins.

Yesterday Collins began a test of the relative value of sulphur and gypsum as means of taking alkali from his soil, located on Ball road near Anaheim. Assistant Farm Advisor Eric Eastman assisted in getting the tests underway.

Recently Eastman announced the launching of other similar work in this county on a basis which assures complete cleaning up of alkali. New methods have been devised, he pointed out, whereby complete reclamation of alkali land is possible.

Another advance in the reclamation of alkali land is receiving considerable attention from Orange county ranchers, according to Eastman, who stated that a new pasture and forage plant known as Zawadke grass is becoming popular on alkali land. This grass will grow where nothing else will, he declared. Samples of it are on exhibit at the Orange County Farm bureau offices. The grass was discovered by John Zawadke on his ranch in Marion, Montana. It never has been definitely classified.

ANOTHER MURDER MYSTERY

These pieced-together fragments of a photograph, found in a cornfield near Norristown, Pa., beside the body of a pretty young woman, only added to the mystery of her identity and the reason for her murder. After both the body of the victim and the girl shown in the left of this photo had been identified as that of Mrs. Bertha Wilgus, of Bridgeport, Mrs. Wilgus appeared in person to declare that she was very much alive.

L. A. OFFICERS CLAIM BOAT IN ORANGE COUNTY

District Attorney Z. B. West today announced that investigation of the position of the Monfalcone, gambling ship, lying six and one-half miles off shore, probably would be made Friday or Saturday to determine whether the ship is anchored in Orange county or Los Angeles county—if a line marking the boundaries of the two counties can be extended that far into the ocean.

Reports indicate that Los Angeles authorities have "passed the buck" to Orange county officials on the ground that the gambling palace is within Orange county.

West said that he would go to Los Angeles Saturday and discuss the situation with District Attorney Buron Fitts, who assumes duties of that office on Saturday.

Pointing out that in the case of the Johanna Smith, gambling ship operating off shore some months ago, it was contended that the ship was anchored inside the Orange county line extended into the ocean, West said that he was not certain that the Monfalcone is in the same position.

"If there is any legal way by which we can stop the gambling I am ready and willing to go the full course in co-operation with the Los Angeles authorities," West said. "If the ship is far enough at sea to prevent either Orange or Los Angeles county stopping its operations, we may be able to get at the situation by preventing motor boats with passengers for the ship departing from points in Orange and Los Angeles counties."

Pointing out that he knew nothing about the operating of the gambling boat until his return from the north Tuesday afternoon, West said that he had not had time to study the law governing ships as far off shore as the Monfalcone and therefore was not in position today to say what might be done in the case.

COUNTY SHIPS BIG PERSIMMON CROP TO EAST

Orange county persimmon growers today are checking up on the largest harvest in the history of the industry here, a yield from which 98 carloads of fruit were shipped to eastern markets according to A. A. Brock, horticultural commissioner.

The crop was four times as great as that in 1927, and it is estimated that from seven to eight times as much fruit was sent to the east. Including fruit sold in local markets, it is estimated that approximately 110 carloads of fruit were produced.

According to J. M. Alcorn, of the Central Orange County Persimmon Growers association, at Fullerton, prices are expected to be satisfactory this year, though perhaps not so high as last. Last year the crop brought $275 a ton.

In the monthly news letter of the horticultural department, issued today, it was estimated that the Tustin persimmon house shipped 27 cars and the Fullerton house 41 cars.

"In addition the equivalent of 13 cars was shipped from Tustin and 17 cars from Fullerton in express and truck shipments, including one consignment to Hawaii," the letter said.

PLANNING IDEA IS BACKED BY BEACH CHAMBER

The board of supervisors today were in receipt of a communication from the Sunset Beach chamber of commerce endorsing the proposal for establishment of an Orange County planning commission.

"We are impressed with the advantage of such a commission appointed by you as an advisory board in studying needs and requirements for further development of the county in coordination with the development in adjoining counties."

"The progress made by Los Angeles county presents us with an ideal situation. A commission selected from men of our own county, interested in constructive activities, would serve to offer important information, as a result of study, of material aid to the board of supervisors in a constructive policy that would operate in continuity," said the letter.

Asks $25,000 For Asserted Drilling Of Newport Canal

Alleging that the defendants had drilled a canal for ships, vessels and boats on his Orange county land without authority, George W. Harbou today sought judgment for $25,000 against W. K. Parkinson, Charles T. Leeds and W. K. Barnard, of Los Angeles.

According to Harbou's complaint, the defendants dredged the canal between May, 1924, and May, 1926, through his land adjoining Newport bay. In so doing they destroyed three acres of his land, allowing ocean water to flow onto it, he declared.

The case was transferred to the superior court here from Los Angeles county.

FLU VACATION MAY BE MADE UP NEXT JUNE

Although no definite decision had been reached today as to when Santa Ana students will make up the time lost during the influenza shut down of schools announced yesterday, it is expected that the time will be put in at the end of the year.

According to J. A. Cranston, superintendent of schools, this would be the most satisfactory period inasmuch as many plans have been made by students and teachers for activities during the Christmas holidays, which would offer the first opportunity for making up the time. Many students have made arrangements for working during the Christmas vacation, he pointed out.

Final decision as to the date rests with the board of education, Cranston pointed out. In discussing the reason for the closing order of yesterday, Cranston stated that the loss of money to the schools brought about by decreased attendance was the main reason for the unexpected vacation. The absences represent 19.5 per cent of the registration and inasmuch as school income is based on attendance, the loss of money is an important item, Cranston said.

He indicated that the vacation is not so much evidence of a greater influenza problem as it is an economic move to conserve school money.

FINISH REPORT ON FARM BUREAU WORK

Officials and employers of the Orange County Farm bureau have a double reason for giving thanks today, for they can recall with pleasure the fact that they completed the annual report of the institution yesterday. For a week the office has been busy with the work of compiling, tabulating and adding in order that the annual document could be completed on time.

A copy of the statistics will go to the federal department of agriculture. A similar copy, with a narrative report, will go to the extension division of the University of California at Berkeley.

The report contains facts and figures showing the activities of farm bureau and extension service officials here during the past year.

Attractive Dinner at Asa Vandermaast Home

One of the most attractive of today's dinners was the reunion at the Asa Vandermaast home, 428 South Birch street when the relatives of Mr. and Mrs. Vandermaast gathered there for Thanksgiving dinner.

The table was gay with its centerpiece of autumn fruits in rich shades and its cheery appointments in gold and orange. Following the dinner, the afternoon was spent in conversation and in listening to Mr. and Mrs. Vandermaast tell of their interesting trip to Europe from which they returned but a short time ago.

Thanksgiving Dinner Served at Island Home

Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Baker of 618 French street, were hosts today at an attractive Thanksgiving dinner which was served in the Harvey cottage at Balboa Island where Mr. and Mrs. Baker and their guests spent the day.

The morning was spent in enjoying various sports offered on the beach after which the dinner was enjoyed.

Mr. and Mrs. Baker's guests included Mr. and Mrs. George Baker, Mrs. Mary Fearns of Los Angeles, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Bowen of Los Angeles, Mrs. Mabel Wallace of Long Beach, Mr. and Mrs. George Yoder and Nell Yoder.

Turkey Menu Cards Used At Breakfast Meeting

Turkey menu cards and autumn leaves and flowers added a festive air to the breakfast sponsored by members of the Bon Matin, French club of the junior college, at James' confectionery Wednesday morning.

True to their calling, members spoke only in French and there was a fine imposed upon anyone who ventured to converse in his mother tongue. Another chapter of the story of Josephine, which is being continued from one meeting to the next was written while breakfast was served.

Lavinia Compton was in charge of the affair, making special arrangements for decorations. Places were set for twelve.

Dinner at Home

Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Warner of 338 Halesworth street entertained Mrs. Warner's mother, Mrs. James Skeggs and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Corbrey and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Scholes at dinner today at a pretty affair at their home.

The afternoon was spent in happy conversation and music.

ANN MEREDITH'S MIXING BOWL
When Greek Meets Latin
"Swank," "putting on dog," and similar phrases are used to indicate a dollar income with 2-cents support behind it... sometimes we get away with it, if we are clever, but most of the time someone who listens is smarter than we are and we get a rude laugh.

What led to these observations was a discussion about the present school system and the value of Latin as a basis for language study.

And the "swanker" referred to said, "My, wouldn't take anything for the training I had in Latin. I'll tell you, reading Cicero and Virgil and Homer made the study of English just that much easier for me."

I haven't a doubt but they should have, although I couldn't reconcile Homer, the Greek, in her mixing of the breeds.

If one must swank, one should check up on the facts in one's story.

TODAY'S RECIPE

Salmon In Oil
1-2-inch slices of salmon
1 cup olive oil
1 cup vinegar
4 cloves of garlic
1 teaspoon salt
1-4 teaspoon cayenne

Olive oil is an absolute necessity in this recipe; it is used for flavor as well as a cooking medium.

Buy as many salmon slices as will serve the family. Wash and wipe dry. In a heavy iron skillet put the oil, vinegar, garlic in whole pieces, cut partly through, and seasonings.

When hot lay the salmon slices in carefully and simmer for about an hour, turning the slices occasionally to blend the flavors into the fish.

Now drain off all the liquid around the fish, set the pan over a hot flame and quickly brown the slices. Put them on a hot platter, reheat the cooking juices and pour boiling hot over the browned salmon.

Sprinkle with chopped parsley before sending to the table. Oh, yes, don't forget to fish out the garlic cloves... some unsuspecting victim might not relish eating a hunk of garlic.

This quantity of oil dressing will cook 2 pounds of salmon. For the small family one pound of fish will be sufficient, that should serve four people. However, the calory total is given for the larger quantity and six generous portions.

Some 3850 calories makes the total in this recipe, allowing for two pounds of the fish (2000 calories). Almost 650 calories per person.

The dessert must also be unimportant because of the fat units. I think that grape fruit tops off a fish dinner better than anything, and it does cut the fishy taste.

One of the green leafy vegetables might come from this week's leaflet, COOKING WINTER VEGETABLES.

A stamped, self-addressed envelope brings the leaflet to you free of charge this week

TOMORROW the same lady who is responsible for the salmon recipe will give us her recipe for making Italian Sauce to serve with Macaroni.

ANN MEREDITH.

Open Class Meeting Is Interesting Event

An interesting event of recent date was the open class meeting given by Ollimae Enlow Matthews at her home on North Main street for her pupils.

An interesting program had been arranged for the occasion and it included solos and ensemble numbers in groups of two, four and eight.

Following the musical hour Mrs. Matthews' pupils and their guests enjoyed discussion of the various selections which had been presented.

SOUTHWEST NAMES AUDITION WINNERS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—Miss Anna M. Chandler, Fayetteville, Ark., soprano, and Patrick H. Wilson of Galveston, Texas, tenor, were announced today as winners of the semi-finals in the national radio audition for the southwestern states. They will represent this section at the finals which will be in New York December 6.

Miss Faye Beard, Tulsa, Okla., was placed second in the girls group and Miss Joyce Allman, San Angelo, Texas, was awarded third place. In the boys group Allen Stewart, Parsons, Kas., was second, and Charles R. Henry, Little Rock, Ark., was third.

WOMAN IN RAT HUNT

MT. VERNON, Ill., Nov. 29.—(UP)—Thirty-nine women and girls hastily mounted tables, chairs and machines, while men attempted to capture a huge rat in a laundry here. A fortieth woman grabbed a broom and joined the chase. The rat died when a male employee accidentally stepped on it.

The orange and black color scheme which is used to a great extent during the Thanksgiving season was in evidence Tuesday night when Mr. and Mrs. John Turton of 1045 West Chestnut avenue entertained members of the Sup n' Chatter club.

Following the supper which was served at the card tables, the evening was spent in playing bridge. When scores were added it was found that Roy Gowdy and Mrs. Ed Ehlen held high scores and each was presented with an attractive gift.

Guests of Mr. and Mrs. Turton included Mr. and Mrs. Roy Gowdy, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Ehlen, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Schneider, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Achey, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Wieseman.

Anaheim Girl Honored By Sisters at Party

Mrs. E. P. Jackson and Mrs. A. Griggs of Anaheim, were hostesses yesterday at a delightful party held in honor of their sister, Miss Margaret Griggs, at the home of their mother, Mrs. May I. Griggs of 549 South Los Angeles street, Anaheim. Miss Griggs is to marry Everett L. State of this city December 2.

The lovely gifts, arranged on a prettily decorated table, came as a complete surprise to the young honoree. Music and cards furnished the main diversions of the afternoon, and a 6 o'clock dinner was served at three tables centered with tall pink tapers in pink crystal candleabra.

All of the guests invited to the shower were relatives of the two families. They were, besides the bride-elect and her mother, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Griggs, Miss Minnie Clausen, Miss Annabell Griggs, Mr. and Mrs. Edward E. Kellogg, Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Everett and their son, Dean, all of Pasadena; Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Gale and Mrs. Ethel Everett of Hollywood; Mr. and Mrs. Truman Griggs of Los Angeles; Mr. and Mrs. John E. State of Santa Ana, and Mr. and Mrs. Clinton A. Griggs and daughter, Virginia, Mr. and Mrs. Earle Jackson and Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Root of Anaheim.

YOUNGEST MAYORESS

KING'S FLYNN, Norfolk, Eng., Nov. 29.—(UP)—This little old-world town is to have one of the youngest mayoresses in the world, and a titled one at that. She is ten-year-old Lady Elizabeth Townshend, daughter of the Marchioness Townshend who takes office as mayor of King's Lynn shortly.

RING RECOVERED

MOBERLY, Mo., Nov. 29.—(UP)—A ring lost in a lake here two years ago has been recovered by Mrs. Paul Morrison. While Mrs. Morrison was swimming in the lake, the ring slipped off. It was found by a group of boys making mud balls on the side of the lake.

Mr. and Mrs. Flagg Entertain at Club

One of the most delightful of Thanksgiving dinners was that planned today by Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Flagg of 1320 North Broadway.

Mr. and Mrs. Flagg spent the morning at the Santa Ana country club where they enjoyed a game of golf with their houseguests, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Knapp. At noon they were joined by Mr. and Mrs. Flagg's sons-in-law and daughters, Mr. and Mrs. James Duggan and Mr. and Mrs. Riley Huber.

The delicious dinner was served at a table where the gay yellows of the Thanksgiving season were contrasted in attractive fashion with darker autumn shades in the table appointments.

Interesting Meeting Is Held By J. C. Presidents

Plans for bringing about a better spirit of co-operation between the various clubs at the Santa Ana junior college were discussed last night at a dinner meeting of the presidents of the clubs which took place Tuesday night at the junior college.

In order to further these plans an inter-club council was appointed with McKee Fisk as faculty advisor, members of the council include Miss Adelaide Mueller, Keith Trickey, George Tobias, and Willard White.

George Tobias and McKee Fisk were in charge of the evening's meeting which was one of the most interesting yet held.

A musical program included violin solos by Miss Rose Marie Smith who was accompanied by Miss Marcia Keeler.

The dinner was served by members of the Y. W. C. A. of the junior college.

VIENNESE MEN TO WEAR DRESS SUITS

VIENNA, Nov. 29.—(UP)—The man in evening clothes is to become the rule instead of the exception in the Vienna theaters. By the direction of the city's two most famous stages, the opera and the Burgtheater (drama), a request has been issued that at least to first-nights all male members of the audience wear a "tux" if not "soup and fish." And, in Vienna, the request of such men amounts almost to an order.

In pre-war days such a regulation would never have been dreamed of. No one thought of sitting even in the gallery without dressing for the occasion. Standing-room patrons wore the darkest suits they possessed. Then there was an emperor, however; today there is only a president of the republic.

With democracy Austria developed slothful habits of dress. Many who possessed evening clothes had to pawn them for a few cents when starvation faced the country in the years just following the peace of 1918. Better days have now arrived; and the directors think that it is time to dress accordingly.

Rose Arbor Inn Chosen For Pretty Dinner Party

Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Peterson of this city chose the Rose Arbor Inn as the setting for the delightful dinner party with which they entertained today at noon. Mrs. Peterson had decorated her table in tones of pink and a lovely bouquet of rosy chrysanthemums centered the table.

Guests of Mr. and Mrs. Peterson were Mr. and Mrs. W. C. May, Mr. and Mrs. G. S. Huffman, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Huffman, Miss Charlotte Arnold, Mrs. William Berger, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur A. May, Douglass and Irma Jean May.

Family Dinner Enjoyed At J. P. Boyd Home

Dr. J. P. Boyd and Miss Rosa Boyd of 801 North Main street, were charming hosts this noon at a family dinner served in the Boyd home. Miss Boyd was assisted in arranging the attractive dining table by Mrs. Brad Hellis of Tustin.

Covers were laid for Dr. Boyd, Miss Boyd, Mr. and Mrs. Brad Hellis, Miss Jane Mury, J. C. Joplin, Joe Joplin Jr., and Miss Boyd's twin nieces, Miss Rosa Boyd Joplin and Miss Helen Rebecca Joplin of Los Angeles.

ROYALTY LIKES DISCS

LONDON, Nov. 29.—(UP)—London's most famous royal gramophone "fan" recently paid a visit to the city, and shop attendants in Regent street had the latest records and gadgets ready for demonstration. Queen Victoria, Eugenie of Spain usually spends several hours in her favorite gramophone shop while visiting London.

Many celebrity "fans" make their headquarters at the shop. The proprietor proudly displays a rare picture gallery, portraits of his patrons, including a magnificent presentation portrait of the Queen of Spain, and many other royalties and celebrities.

Mrs. Mildred Fletcher and Miss Mildred Livenspire of 401 Harwood place are dinner guests today of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Martin at their ranch home near Ontario.

EMPLOYMENT RECORD

ALPENA, Mich., Nov. 29.—(UP)—Twenty-eight consecutive years in the same employ, no days lost because of sickness, and 100,000 tons of coal hauled to his credit, is the record of William Maskell, employed by the Allan M. Eagles coach company of Alpena.

Maskell began work for the concern in 1900, shortly after he was married. Until five years ago a horse-drawn wagon was used for Maskell's coal-hauling activities, but since then a truck has been in his service.

HIGH SCHOOL AND JAYSEE NOTES

Replacing the Barker Boys' band, of San Clemente, which has been furnishing music for the Friday noon dances in the Santa Ana high school during the last month, the regular student body orchestra again has taken over the task.

Members of the high school Latin club enjoyed hearing Miss Anna L. Trythal, Latin and Spanish instructor, speak on "Roman Ruins in Spain" at the second meeting of the Latin club for the present school year. Miss Trythal visited in Spain and Italy during the last summer and her information, being first hand, was instructive and amusing to the club members.

Representatives from the Santa Ana high school will attend the Older Boys' Conference of Hi-Y members, to be held in Whittier November 30 to December 2.

High school sophomores are being given a special course in library training this week. The lower classmen are excused from their regular English classes and taken to the school library, where they are given instruction in the use of library material.

Girls of the Santa Ana high school are showing a marked interest in domestic science work this year, according to Miss Ruth Roland, head of the domestic science department in the school. Capacity enrollment in most of the homemaking courses show a decided trend in interest. The girls have made 12 dozen towels for the physical education department of the school. The girls also have made dresses for which they designed their own patterns. In the millinery department, the students have been making hats. Weaving is also offered as part of the millinery course. One group of the girls have been spending some time in making pajamas.

Value
In Diamonds

What is a diamond worth?
It depends upon:

1. Color, whether pure white or not.
2. Perfection, varying from slight to bad flaws.
3. Cut, life and brilliancy depends upon it.
4. Weight; some sizes are scarce, others plentiful.

After all, it is not wise to trust to your own judgment, but better to leave it to a reliable jeweler.

CHURCH CLUBS FRATERNAL WOMEN SOCIETY THE HOME WEDDINGS FASHIONS HOUSEHOLD

The WOMAN'S DAY by ALLENE SUMNER

Alma Semple McPherson pops forth again in a bribery probe said to involve $100,000 paid out as hush money in the romantic trial of the auburn-haired evangelist who insisted that she was kidnapped and held for ransom, whereas the state explained her absence otherwise.

MOTHERS AND DAUGHTERS.

The evangelist's mother, Mrs. Minnie Kennedy, is said to have admitted that she furnished the $100,000. During the fantastic McPherson case there were several rumors of friction and rifts between the evangelist and her mother who acted as her business manager. But with all the friction, mother Kennedy never by word nor action jeopardized "Sister's" cause, though daughter Alma seemed a bit careless at times as to what she said about mammas. Mothers are like that and daughters are like that.

TOO MUCH WEALTH?

Crippled from infantile paralysis almost since her birth Miss Irene Riley, daughter of a New York Central Railroad official, was given every necessity and luxury for her special problem that money and power could buy. Reading and writing and mental interests were developed as compensation for impossible physical activity. Almost utterly unable to move hands or arms, her father provided her with an intricate and expensive reading mechanism, a combination lamp and book page turner. The other day when her parents were away the mechanism short-circuited and the girl died a horrible death, burned alive.

ANOTHER CHOICE?

It would be silly, of course, to use this tragedy as an illustration of the perils of wealth. Even with her horrible death it's probable that money made the girl's life so much more endurable than the same girl in poverty would have had that she would have chosen even the horrible but swift end rather than 32 years of unendurable chronic living. Or would she?

JOHN CAN'T WED

John Coolidge confides to a classmate that he would like to get married but can't afford it on his present salary. Which would seem to testify that even being the son of the president of the United States, and especially of one whose money-acquiring capacities are rather well known, does not automatically feather a son's nest. Parents not quite so well known - the Coolidges could afford to copy this parental insistence on youth making its own way.

Many parents who make a great deal about the irresponsibility of their offspring talk one way but, by "shelling out," practice the art of encouraging and fostering the very thing at which they inveigh.

KIDS AND GUNS

Seven-year-old Leo Krock of Chicago played with a rifle the other day and shot his mother through the heart. She was hanging up clothes which she took in to wash to feed her nine children. And 6-year-old Joseph Longo of New London, Conn., took his father's revolver out of a drawer and fatally wounded his little five-year-old sister.

And what can one say except when will adults either learn how to keep guns away from children, or wage a successful educational campaign to the effect that the gun must never be touched?

SMELTZER

SMELTZER, Nov. 29.—Mr. and Mrs. Charles Applebury and family left Wednesday for Victorville, where they are spending Thanksgiving and over the week end with Mrs. Applebury's father and other relatives.

Mrs. Minnie Allen and daughter, Miss Cleo Allen, of Santa Ana, were entertained Sunday in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Hill.

The small son of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Hill, who has been ill with chickenpox, is convalescing. Mr. Harry Woodington was up for the first time Tuesday following an illness of influenza.

A number of Smeltzer friends of Mrs. Rhoda Gerhart attended her funeral Monday at Huntington Beach. Mr. and Mrs. Ray Moore, D. W. C. Dimock, Mrs. J. A. Murdy, Miss Ella Murdy, Mrs. Charles Parr, George Moore were among those attending.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Parr had as dinner guest Sunday Mrs. Parr's father, George Abbott, of Westminster.

Mrs. J. O. Pyle was one of the guests Tuesday at a luncheon given at the Rose Arbor Inn in Santa Ana by Mrs. William Sylvester, worthy matron of the O. E. S., who entertained for her officers.

BREA

BREA, Nov. 29.—Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Barnes are happy over the arrival of an eight-pound son, the first child in the home, born to them late Monday evening. Mr. Barnes is the assistant cashier in the Oilfields National bank.

Date of the apron sale being sponsored by the ways and means committee of the Brea Woman's club has been changed to that of the regular meeting of the club on December 11 instead of December 12 as announced. Mrs. Livingston, who is chairman of this sale, asks that all aprons be left with her by December 10.

THE ENYMITES STORY by HAI COCHRAN—PICTURES by KNICK REG U & PAT OFF

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

The dawn broke on Thanksgiving Day. The Tines woke and yelled, "Hurray! Hop up there, Mister Hunter. We're to have a dandy feast. We'll start the fire to blazing high, until it brightens up the sky. We want to be of aid, and we can do that much, at least."

The hunter sat right up in bed. He rubbed his eyes, and then he said, "Good morning, little Tines. You all seem full of cheer. But, I don't blame you, not a bit, since all of you are feeling fit to eat some food and celebrate the wondrous day that's here."

It wasn't long till he was dressed. He rushed outside and said, "It's best for me to look around and see that everything's all right." They found their turkey in the pot. "Yum, yum," cried one, "Twill soon be hot, and when we start to eat it, it will disappear from sight."

The fire was made. The turkey steamed, and every little Tine man, stooping low and opening his arms. Without waiting for an answer, he added quickly: "I have two boys at home like you. I like boys." And he pulled the little figure to him and gave it a bearish squeeze.

Suddenly the older boy leaned over and whispered huskily, "Mister, won't you hug me too?" There are a good many children in the world starving for a little demonstration of love, right from their own parents, too.

They need love and a lot of it. Don't let them take it for granted. It isn't always a cure for disobedience, but it is sometimes. Perhaps you are taking it too much for granted that your children know you love them.

Prevent Flu—Check Colds Immediately

Families in Santa Ana Urged To Be Careful

While grip and influenza are so prevalent, local people are urged to use this modern way of checking little colds before they become big.

Have a jar of Vicks VapoRub on hand ready for instant use at the first sign of every cold. When rubbed on throat and chest, or snuffed up the nose, Vicks releases its ingredients in the form of medicated vapors which are breathed in direct to the infected parts.

In addition, Vicks acts through the skin like a poultice, "drawing out" all tightness and pain, loosening, and easing the difficult breathing.

To prevent colds from lowering vitality and thus paving the way for flu and pneumonia, they should be treated direct and instantly—as you would an infected finger.—Adv.

AT THE THEATER WALKER

Sound again triumphs in its uncanny ability to clothe drama with an intensity, that even the spoken stage rarely equals. "State Street Sadie" has not only symphonic accompaniment, but at stirring points in the action, the characters speak their lines. Only persons having had stage and screen experience are chosen for sound presentations—hence the telling effect with which Myrna Loy, Conrad Nagel and William Russell speak their lines.

Miss Loy is cast as Isobel, daughter of a cop, slain in the performance of his duty. Burning to avenge his untimely death, she goes into the haunts of the underworld, becoming known as "State Street Sadie." Nagel plays the part of a youth whose brother has committed suicide, fearing that he may be implicated in the murder. "Sadie" meets Nagel and, while liking him, is suspicious of the honesty of his intentions. Fast and furious are the incidents which trip over each other's heels as the drama reaches its conclusion—which includes the apprehension of the culprit and the happy outcome of the affair between the two amateur sleuths.

"Anybody Here Seen Kelly?" is a simple story of an Irish detective who is waiting for his division to leave France after the war. Being Irish, and traffic cop as well, when out of khaki, he is a success with women. In his love-making abroad he tells each girl to come to America later on and be his wife.

Jeanette takes him seriously. She is in love with him. She comes to New York and finds him directing traffic on the corner of Forty-second and Broadway. By the time she has embraced him, the traffic is in a tangle in all directions. Kelly, the cop, tries gently, but firmly to get rid of her. He fails, but learns to love her in the end because of her gentle mothering of him.

Tom Moore appears as Kelly and Bessie Love as Jeanette, the French girl. Moore gives an excellent portrayal. His natural Irish smile fits perfectly in the part and he makes Kelly a very likable person. Miss Love, too, is very good. Like Moore, she is a capable player and the two succeed in getting every bit of comedy and romance possible out of their roles.

The picture has other Irishmen in the cast besides Moore. Tom O'Brien appears as the heavy who, in the end, brings the hero and heroine together. Kate Price is the Irish landlady. Alfred Allen appears as the police sergeant.

William Wyler directed the production and has made it an excellent one.

WEST END

For the second time Lina Basquette takes the role of leading lady to Barthelmess in the role of Ada. Miss Basquette was seen recently as the star's feminine lead in "The Noose." This black-eyed young lady was formerly a featured dancer in New York stage productions including Ziegfeld's Follies and has had a meteoric rise on the screen.

Margaret Livingston plays her feminine wiles in the role of Josie Drew, who later calls herself Winnie Ross. Miss Livingston will be remembered for her work in "American Beauty" and "Sunrise."

Bodil Rosing, also of "Sunrise" fame enacts the very sympathetic role of the mother in "The Wheel of Chance" with Warner Oland as the father. Oland was for years known as a deep-dyed screen villain, but recently graduated into sympathetic roles.

Sidney and Martha Franklin brother and sister, play as man and wife and the parents of Lina Basquette. Jacob Abrams is the grandfather and Ann Schaeffer the disolute midwife.

In the prologue sequence wherein the childhood of the twins (later played by Barthelmess) is shown, Ray and Roy Berenzden are seen. The two boys are twins and three and half years of age. In the main story, Barthelmess is seen in the dual roles of Nikolai and Schmulka twin brother, who, unknown to each other, meet in a highly dramatic situation.

English Town To Have Air Garage

READING, Nov. 29.—(UP)—Believed to be the first of its kind in Great Britain, Reading is to have an air garage with lock-ups for private owners.

It will also have a quick gasoline service, repair shops where all spare parts will be in stock, and a depot for planes flying westward from the continent.

Work on the lock-up hangars will be begun this month, and it is expected that the "garage" will be ready for opening in the spring.

COLDS MAY DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take.

Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the seat of the trouble and attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

MAY LINK MIAMI WITH 11 NATIONS

MIAMI, Fla., Nov. 29.—(UP)—Miami will be linked with lands of 11 nations if the proposed extension of airplane service, which is being negotiated by Pan-American Airways, here, is completed.

The proposed line will extend from Panama along the northern coast of South America and northward through the Windward and Leeward Islands into San Juan and Porto Rico, to link with a line from Miami. Further service along the east coast of South America is also contemplated.

Should the proposals be carried out, it would be possible to fly from Miami and pass over Cuba, Mexico, Guatemala, Honduras, Costa Rica, Colombia, British Guiana, Dutch Guiana, Windward Islands, Leeward Islands, Porto Rico and Haiti.

The Miami-Cuba mail and passenger transportation line is already in operation through the West Indies to San Juan scheduled to be started December 15. Regular flying to Central America will be started during the winter.

PARIS, Nov. 29.—(UP)—Future travelers between France and England will have to decide for themselves whether they will risk being seasick or airsick when the proposed system of aerial taxis is officially installed in the channel service between Calais and Dover.

For those who prefer the Paris-London journey by rail, but dislike the frequently choppy seas and the roll and pitch of the little Channel steamers, a service of hydroplanes will be established shortly. The departures and arrivals of the planes will be arranged to connect with express trains at both terminals.

EVENING SALUTATION

Thanksgiving

The roar of the world is in my ears.
Thank God for the roar of the world!
Thank God for the mighty tide of fears
Against me always hurled!

Thank God for the bitter and ceaseless strife,
And the sting of his chastening rod!
Thank God for the stress and the pain of life,
And Oh, thank God for God.

THANKSGIVING DAY

Today is Thanksgiving Day. This is a day the history of which dates back several centuries to the beginning of New England. It has been devoted primarily to a day of family gathering. It is a day when the children and the grandchildren have been wont to gather at the old homestead, and with feasting and social intercourse pass a day of sweetest reminiscence.

We have been prone on Thanksgiving Day both in our religious and in our individual conception to stress the idea of material welfare. We have been blessed more than any other people. We have lived under better conditions than any other nation.

The flag which typifies a higher conception of liberty floats over us, we feel, than floats over any other people anywhere and for this we are profoundly grateful.

We would not minimize this spirit of gratitude for the things which we have received in government from the minds of our fathers, in the blessings of liberty from their heroism and their courage and the sentiments which they have given us and which date back to such a moment that we have to depend upon the lips of tradition for their beginning.

Every good and great thing which we enjoy we are able to enjoy because of the faithfulness and the sacrifice and perhaps the far-sightedness of those who have gone before; and the trust way in which we can evidence the gratitude which we should feel, is a devotion to improving that which has been left for us so that those who will follow after shall profit equally by our virtues as we do by those of our forefathers.

The one great thing for which all mankind may be grateful is that of the opportunity to develop his personality. We are living in a world of folks. Whether we are poor or rich, we are surrounded by people whose greatest longing is to have friends whose constant joy is that a line of communication and understanding is open and kept open between themselves and the innermost soul of other people.

We have the opportunity to exercise the virtues of friendliness, of generosity, of justice, of mercy, and of love. We have the opportunity to decide on our own course. Every morning we are afforded a new beginning, we stand at the crossroads of a new life. The facts concerning the routes before us are quite clear before our understanding. The appeals are presented to us to follow either route. No automatic hand stays our feet.

We can decide on the course which will develop us into the nobles and purest character at the end of the tedious, rough and rugged route, or we can decide to take the route of the pleasures of the moment, which if pursued as a constant policy in life, will rob us of personality and of power. We can take the route by which we can really achieve immortality, or we can take that which is fascinating for the moment but which ends briefly in ashes and decay.

We should be thankful for this opportunity because we are truly architects of our own fortune. We can determine upon either the short or the long run. There is no greater boon for which humanity can express their gratitude. We are not slaves, our pathway is not walled-in so that we must walk the route which any other being has laid down for us. We are free. It is the power of choosing that makes us men. We are grateful that the world is made as it is, that men are endowed as they are, and this wonderful opportunity for development is ours, and for these, to a degree at least, the most unfortunate being in the most hapless section of the globe can express gratitude to his Maker today.

To be sure, there is much in the world for which we cannot give thanks, but none of that was placed here by Him to whom our gratitude should extend. It has come as the result of our failures to take advantage of the opportunities which have been afforded us to aid our brothers in their environment and furnishing them an opportunity to fulfill the purposes that their Creator had for them to fulfill.

We can be grateful for this beautiful world, for these opportunities for service, and that God is good.

Whatever has become of Senator Charles Curtis? Wasn't he elected to something or other this fall?

RUMANIA LIFTS CENSORSHIP

The new premier of Rumania, Julius Maniu has brought about the abolition of censorship, the restoration of the liberty of public meetings by the citizens, and the maintenance of the state of siege only along the frontier.

By this action Rumania is removed from the small group of nations shrouded in the mist of censorship. In considering news from those countries, and the group includes Italy, one does well to develop a special brand of skepticism. News dispatches from them may be true, as far as they go, or they may be entirely false, or they may not report important happenings at all.

There are many ways in which the censors control news reports. At the center of their control is the job of the foreign correspondent. If he smuggles out an article of which the censor does not approve he is often ultimately discovered and his usefulness in that particular country to the news bureau he writes for is at an end. Yet if he doesn't make an attempt to tell the full truth even about a censored country once in a while his news bureau's service to its clients is nil.

So it is that in reading the news of countries in which news is censored one must read a great deal, read experiences and opinions of travelers and personal investigators, read news dispatches, and read between the lines, then perhaps one is in a position to form an opinion—if he feels, face to face with the customary lot of conflicting opinion that he dares. Rumania has cleared her decks. We can begin to believe what we read in dispatches from Rumania.

AMERICAN LABOR AT NEW ORLEANS

For a number of years now the American Federation of Labor has been holding its annual meetings at strategic points immediately affecting the growth of the organization. A number of years ago, the annual meeting was held in Dallas. The object was to link the Mexican Federation of Labor more closely with the American Federation. More recently, the annual session was held in Detroit, with the hope of organizing the automobile industry. That movement signally failed. The nature of the automobile industry, and the fact that this industry has come into being since the growth of unionism, enabling it to avoid the mistakes of the older industries, had made it impervious to union influence. Aside from the bad spirit that the meeting left in Detroit in industrial and ecclesiastical circles, nothing came of that session of the Federation so far as its numerical growth and its influence was concerned.

Now it is meeting in New Orleans, and the purpose of meeting in that place is to make union recruits in the developing industries of the South. The Federation has reason to look with greater hopefulness for its numerical growth in that region. There labor is being exploited, both by long hours and low wages. And where such conditions exist, there labor unionism is most apt to flourish. Employers may fight the coming in of unionism, as they did in Detroit; but unless working conditions are improved they are in for a struggle, the end of which is either defeat of the employers or the demoralization of the industries. Only the wholesome conditions which existed in the automobile industry, as to wages, hours, and general working conditions, prevented an impact upon the industry by the Federation.

The American Federation has lost tremendously in membership during the last ten years. The attempt to come back is a very natural desire. The causes for this decline lie deeper than can be adequately discussed within editorial limits. This, however, may be said, that the lack of unity within the organization itself and its lack of punch and purpose in recent years has much to do with it. The continuing prosperity of the country since 1921, in spite of the occasional periods of unemployment, also may have much to do with it. In general, however, it may be said that the best prospects for the continued influence and increasing commercial strength of unionism depends upon a program which will mean something to the rank and file. The breakdown of unionism in the coal industry, the defection of the clothing workers from the A. F. of L. and the slump in textiles, are factors that will test the wisdom of the leaders.

It would be a pity if labor unionism should break down. It has accomplished much for the workers. But it must look forward in a wiser way. The Atlantic City Convention made a good forward move when it proclaimed its new policy of production. Like every other organization in modern society, it must adjust itself to the new time and the new organization of industry.

Ten Years After a Fairy Book Romance

San Francisco Chronicle

Czechoslovakia has just celebrated the tenth anniversary of her re-birth as a nation after an eclipse of 32 years.

Czechoslovakia is the fairy tale of the World war. Before the war probably no inhabitant of ancient Bohemia even thought of such a thing as independence of Austria. Federalism of Austria, in which ancient entities like Bohemia would have the status of states, was as far as Bohemian patriots went then.

Yet before the war was over and while her manpower was still, through force of circumstances, fighting in the Austrian ranks, Czechoslovakia had been recognized as a nation enrolled on the side of the Allies. And when the war was over her representatives sat with the victors at the peace table.

Two men did it—Masaryk and Benes—both school teachers. They did it by sheer force of character. They convinced their people that the great chance had come. Far more difficult, they convinced the Allies that the people of Bohemia, though wearing the Austrian uniform, were really on the other side. Out of Czechoslovakia prisoners captured from the Austrians on various fronts they organized troops for the Allies. They organized their countrymen in Austria into so efficient an information service that Paris knew the daily conversations of the Austrian chiefs.

Thus Masaryk and Benes produced this anomaly—Czechoslovakia, though a part of Austria to the end, was during the war recognized as an Allied state.

In the ten years since Masaryk and Benes have proved equally effective as administrators of their reborn country. Czechoslovakia has prospered and with fewer troubles, internal or external, than any others of the new or newly expanded countries of Central and Southeastern Europe. Masaryk and Benes are really statesmen.

Is China to Jump the Motor Age?

Christian Science Monitor

China, if the signs are read aright, is about to "jump" the automobile age and pass direct from the bullock cart and railroad to the airplane and all that it embraces. This is not to say that motor-car manufacturers may not find a lucrative field in the eighteen provinces which comprise China proper, for the automobile is making inroads there, but it is almost certain that before the motor vehicle has become to the East what it has become to the West, aviation will have found acceptance as a common means of conveyance.

It has gained a great impetus from the demand for speedier transportation, and has even now proved its value in linking up distant cities. "Already we have air-mail lines," says Huang Tien-lai, a Chinese aviator who is touring the United States with the object of studying modern aviation methods and the building of suitably placed landing fields. "One from Shanghai to Nanking. Another from Shanghai to Canton. Still another from Shanghai to Hankow. But we must have passenger lines. We have a great need of understanding among ourselves."

By airplane, Mr. Huang hopes to bring the people of the North and South closer to each other. When it is remembered that China proper covers an area of 1,500,000 square miles, and that its population of over 300,000,000 constitutes almost one-fifth of that of the whole world, the importance of aviation is at once apparent. It is still more striking if the outlying provinces of Manchuria, Mongolia, Tibet and Chinese Turkestan are taken into consideration, for these increase the area to 2,500,000 square miles. How to knit the outlying regions together has always been a problem for the Far East. China finds a solution in the rapid development of the airplane.

More Truth Than Poetry

By James J. Montague

A LESSON IN ADAPTABILITY

A deer was lately discovered trotting along behind a motor car.

The deer has no talons or claws
With which to ward off an attack,
He has not a fang in his jaws
No armor he wears on his back.
He has not the scent of a bear
Or the far seeing eyes of a hawk,
So you'd think if he doesn't take care
That he'd soon be extinct as the auk.
But your guess would be wrong for it lately appears
That the deer has a brain just abate of his ears.

No longer he hides in the woods
Where the hunter expects him to be,
The forest, he's learned, is no good
To veil a big brute such as he.
He canters along the highway
And his dun colored form he conceals
From people who seek him as prey
Behind hurrying automobiles.
And he wears a sly smile on his tapering face
For no one would hunt him in such a queer place.

By keeping abreast of the age
The gentle and timorous deer
May linger along on the stage
For many and many a year.
Long after the tiger and bear
In fossils alone can be found
The deer with a nonchalant air
Will serenely be sticking around.
For as long as this world speeds along on its course
Brains will prove of more use than claws, fangs, or brute force.

THANKSGIVING

Thanksgiving is not a matter of fact. It is an attitude. You cannot look over your situation, balance the pros and cons, and see how many good things are yours and how many bad things and arrive arithmetically at the answer of thankfulness.

A confirmed invalid, blind man or one-legged man, may be thankful; and a favorite of fortune, in good health, may be ungrateful.

Thankfulness is like what a man said of Boston. "Boston," he said, "is not a location. Boston is a state of mind."

Thankfulness is just a condition of joy and gratitude toward "whatever God's will may be," and pessimism is just a querulous and fault-finding state of mind.

Anybody, therefore, can be thankful. At least, he can say to himself: "Cheer up! It might be worse."

It is largely a matter of habit. People can get into the way of walking in the sun or of skulking in the shadows.

And if we are naturally of a morose and cloudy temperament we can change that temperament if we doggedly go about it. Many a man has climbed out of the fog and cloud of discouragement into the light of cheerfulness by sheer will power.

Abraham Lincoln said that he had observed that most people were about as happy as they had made up their minds to be.

In the case of thankfulness it is certainly true that "virtue is its own reward." It is a good thing in itself. It is better to be thankful than to have plenty of meat and vegetables and money with which to buy them. For all the food in the world and all the clothing in the world cannot render happy one who is habitually unthankful.

Besides being good per se, thankfulness brings other goods in its train.

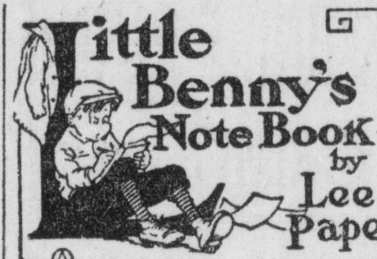

Thankful people are usually healthy. They are usually efficient. They are agreeable to live with. And altogether we like to have them around.

If you would be sought after, therefore, if you want people to like you—and everybody does—cultivate thankfulness.

A nasty and critical mind, a complaining or dissatisfied person, may be at times interesting, but who wants to live with him?

Thankfulness is not to be reasoned out by thinking over the past, but to be cultivated because it prepares us for the future.

You can always be thankful for something. If you are to be hung be thankful that it will be a rope that will be used and not a halter.

I was starting to get dressed this morning half awake and 3 quarters asleep, and ma called up, Benny, I haven't herd you go to get washed, do you mean to say your not dressed yet?

G wizzickers, ma, I cant find my stockings, I sed.

Wich I coulndent, and ma sed, O my goodness of all things.

And she quick came up, saying, Now how can you be so ridiculous, cant find your stockings, thats impossible.

Well G, ma, how can it be impossible when Im rite here not finding them? I sed, and she sed, Now dont argew, argewing never accomplished anything.

And she started to lift things up and look under them, saying, Its very strange.

Thats wat I think, somebody must of stuck them some place, I sed, and ma sed, Yes, and that somebody must of been yourself.

And she shook out all the covers on my bed without shaking any stockings out, saying, Ware did you get undressed last nite, in some strange unusual place for any strange unusual reason?

No mam, rite here in this room, thats wat makes it such a big mystery, I sed, and ma sed, Mystery fiddlisticks, their just ware you put them, look under the bed.

I did, ma, about 6 times, I sed. And I looked under agen and they still wasent there, and ma sed, Well then their noware elts in this room because Ive looked everywhere.

Yes they are, G wizz I remember now, I bet a pickel you cant guess, ma, I sed, and ma sed, I didnt come up here to play gessing games, get those stockings immediately if you dont want to get something elts.

Wich I didnt so I did, lifting up one end of the mattress and there they both was on account of me having put them there last nite while I was wondering wat princesses did with their stockings at nite in case they wore gold ones and was afraid of berglers, and ma gave me something elts anyways just for good luck, being a short slap some place.

Thoughts On Modern Life

By Glenn Frank

Today the people of the United States participate in one of the few folk festivals that have flowered from the soil of the American adventure—the festival of Thanksgiving.

The meaning of this festival pours over the frontiers of the United States and speaks to all the peoples of earth who share in the restlessness and rush of this materialistic era.

I speak of it, then, not as an American holiday, but as a festival rich with meaning for all the peoples of earth who make up Western machine civilization, and all those men and movements in the Orient that are coming under the influence of western ideals.

The first American Thanksgiving is supposed to have been the three-day festival in which Pilgrim and Indian joined in 1621, when a gratifying harvest followed the first year of suffering and privation that the Pilgrim Fathers spent in New England.

And ever since the Americans have set aside one day in the year as a day of national thanksgiving for their blessings. It is, of course, an act of spiritual good taste for a people to show gratitude for food and clothing and shelter and security, but I am thinking of a deeper meaning of the day for the men and women of the western world.

As a people, we westerners are strangely given to the externals of existence.

With us meditation is almost a lost art, and solitude a challenge from which we flee.

But at least for this lone day in the calendar the Americans pick up the neglected instrument of introspection, turning their minds to spiritual stock-taking, that they may give intelligent voice to their gratitude for the advantages that are theirs.

From the beginning much of the day has been surrendered to the frolic wine of festivity, but at least in some shy corner of their minds Americans try to make Thanksgiving mean a meditative retreat from the clamorous calls of the working year.

The first Thanksgiving is said to have been an expression of gratitude for prosperity and security, but it must be remembered that, in comparison with the soft and sheltered lives we lead today, the life of the Pilgrims in the New England of 1621 was a life of risk and want and challenge.

Ever since then the "progress" of machine civilization has made for the elimination of risk and want and challenge from the lives of men and women throughout western civilization.

Are we preserving in the midst of plenty the qualities that made the Pilgrim Fathers great in the midst of poverty?

OUR CHILDREN

By ANGELO PATRI

FAIRY TALES

"I don't believe in telling children fairy tales. I think they ought to be told only the truth." The lady was earnest, conscientious and, in my way of thinking, very much mistaken.

What truth about life can a little child who likes fairy tales, understand? How much truth about life does a grownup understand? Speaking for myself, a grownup understands very little about the truths of life or their meanings. A child under 12, how much truth can he digest? And what truth can you tell him, or her, in the place of the truth of the fairy tales?

There's the glorious Cinderella tale. It dresses the drab facts of life in rainbow hues. It tells of the underfed, underpaid, underjoyed child who patiently served out her day in the dreary drudgery of the daily round to come to great estate one splendid evening.

The child listens with dilated eyes and bated breath. To sorrow with the suffering child, to follow her down the garden path to get a gorgeous pumpkin, to shiver with expectancy as the coach rolls away, to follow the child through life's course to the happy ending, what joy it is.

"But life has no happy endings. Life holds no promise of fairy princes, fairy godmothers. There is no midnight clock that marks the minute where dreams are dreamed and where truth
